WILD MAN RULES THE WEST

By A. J. Reffes

Progress Publishers

For Kathy, friend, mentor and wife. Stupor Mundi.

Copyright ©2025 by A. J. Reffes. All rights reserved. Published by Progress Publishers, Berlin, Germany.

TABLE OF CONTENT

INTRODUCTION 3
WILD MAN RULES THE WEST 4
RED ACTIVISTS AND THEIR NOBLE SAVAGES 6
A CRIMINAL STATE CALLED GERMANY 8
REALITY VERSUS THE DEEP STATE 11
GREENWICH VILLAGE, WASHINGTON SQUARE PARK, MOSCOW 13
MARX WINS PALME D'OR AT CANNES 16
HORROR IN THE WATER 18
WHITE MAN: RUN FOR YOUR LIFE 20
GHOST TRAIN STOPS AT 1600 PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE 23
MARXIST MUSLIM MADNESS 25
JAPAN'S NUMBER ONE IMPORT: MARXISM 28
MARXIST MURDER IN THE NAME OF GEORGE FLOYD 30
AMERICA DECLARES BANKRUPTCY 33
LIGHTS OUT IN GERMANY 35
COMMUNISTS AND FASCISTS BATTLE IN NEW THEATER OF WAR 38
AGITPROP AT MIT 40
BRITAIN REPEALS CIVILIZATION 43
FREEDOM AND ITS ENEMIES 45
GERMANY'S NEW COMMUNIST GESTAPO 47
SUBVERSION IN SEATTLE 50

INTRODUCTION

These reports are intended for a general, nonspecialist audience. They run the gamut of the arts and sciences, historical and current events, and should provide the reader with useful introductions to given topics. May they encourage a few happy hours of suggestive thought!

WILD MAN RULES THE WEST

Cape Danger is a rocky point situated on Desolation Island in Antarctica. It was charted by the British Colonial Office in 1935 and was so named because of the numerous hidden, sunken rocks projecting outward from it. Last visited by nineteenth century sealers, it is a portrait of danger and desolation and is shunned by voyagers. In the twenty first century, Western Culture has descended into physical danger and moral desolation as a one hundred year old trend has reached its culmination. This trend is an axe which has felled civilizations throughout the ages and it began its wild movements against the West at the dawn of the twentieth century. Fifteen hundred years before, it had felled the Classical world, a culture which in its heyday worshiped the god Apollo, healer of souls and bringer of truth, knowledge, light and the sun, and in the present day it has felled a global civilization. This trend is the rejection of reason and the embrace of religion. In ancient Rome, this multihead axe gleamed with the edges of Christianity, barbarism, state worship, caesar worship, welfare dole worship, and bread, circuses, pork and wine worship. Wielded by the degenerate Roman masses, it felled a culture unique in the world in its worship of the noonday sun of Apollonian reason. In the twenty first century, it gleams with the edges of Marxism in all its branches and offshoots, including fascism and national socialism, plus global Islam, Orthodox Judaism, and a resurgent Christianity seeking to bring back the Dark Ages. Watch it move and cut down the tree of the Enlightenment, and see the see the body, leaves, roots and branches tumble into the dustbin of history. Hacking away at the Enlightenment, the Western axe of antireason has hacked out a manifesto of civilizational collapse which has lowered the curtain on one thousand years of Western achievements. It is a manifesto of cultural decline which has cast aside the West's feats of science, technology and the spread of freedom throughout the world, and transformed it into a Faustian house of horrors. Listen to the latest words of this Faustian culture, founded one thousand years ago in Europe on the ruins of the Classical world, founded as the clocks across the continent were striking midnight, founded when Doctor Faust made a pact with the Devil and sold his soul for infinite will power and subjectivity, and hear the words of a rabid, virulent mental sickness without equal in the history of mankind. The twenty first century manifesto of the West proclaims that a progressive society is a society without borders, letting into its ranks the migrant scum of the world. A progressive society rejects rational, virtuous culture distinct from animal barbarism. A progressive society is a society devoid of safety and security, overrun by violent strangers, aliens and nomads from distant, savage lands. A progressive society is a mass migration society, granting citizenship to Muslim humanity haters in the name of multiculturalism. A progressive society allows tens of millions of multiplying bacteria, subpeople carrying mass epidemic diseases and voluminous records of violent crime, to walk unchecked across its borders. A progressive society allows drug traffickers, human traffickers and members of criminal gangs from foreign lands to settle within it. A progressive society grants illegal migrants immunity from deportation. A progressive society releases illegal migrants from jails and grants them citizenship. A progressive society has weaponized its legal system and arrested, prosecuted and jailed members of the antiMarxist opposition. A progressive society has weaponized the legal system to frame Donald Trump on political charges for his campaign to excise the Marxist cancer of affirmative action and transgender rights. A progressive society rejects liberal law codes and constitutions and constructs legal systems as handmaidens of Marxist ideology. A progressive society rejects natural, individual justice in favor of mystical social justice. A progressive society enforces and applies laws on a selective basis and gives Marxists and their sympathizers immunity from prosecution. A progressive society allows Marxists to burn down churches, courthouses and police precincts and unfurl over the ruins the banners of black power. A progressive society rejects inductive reasoning and the empirical method and peddles predetermined, apriori dogmas of gender, race and class politics. A progressive society rejects the existence of objective facts and manufactures facts to fit theories peddling black Marxism, feminist Marxism, gay Marxism, lesbian Marxism, transgender Marxism and Muslim Marxism. A progressive society peddles "critical theories" critical of the Enlightenment. It peddles critical legal theory which proclaims that the law is a weapon of capitalist oppression and exploitation of the proletariat. It peddles critical race theory which proclaims that capitalism is a lash of white oppression and exploitation of the black working class. It peddles critical monetary theory which proclaims that money can be created at will by the government through the printing press and need not be backed by real values such as gold. Governments need not be concerned about creating massive debts because they can pay them by printing money. Government monetary expansion creates inflation but the way to control this inflation is to massively increase taxes and reduce private sector spending. Today's manifesto of the West proclaims that a progressive society is a violent, Islamic, Hamas, Jew hating society. A progressive society is a racist and sexist society which peddles its racism and sexism in the name of achieving diversity, inclusion and a special, higher, mystical form of fairness transcending ordinary, common sense forms of fairness, a form of unfairness called equity. A progressive society is a radical environmentalist society which seeks to dismantle modern industrial and technological civilization in the name of a Green New Deal and eliminating greenhouse gas emissions. A progressive society denies the existence of sex chromosomes and the biological reality of sex differentiation and proclaims that human sex can be changed. It proclaims that males can become females and females can become males, and transgender females, or nonbiological females, have the right to use women's facilities and to compete against women in women's sports. A progressive society rejects the liberal idea of meritocracy and nondiscrimination and establishes race preferences and race quotas in their place. A progressive society arrests, expels and deports all those opposed to the imposition of political correctness by gender, race and class ideologies. A progressive society is a precivilizational, noncivilizational and anticivilizational society whose official religion is tribalism, a society which has abolished individual rights in the name of race, gender, sexual orientation, ethnicity, kinship and bloodlines: "Secure borders and stationary populations were considered the mark of emerging civilization by classical historians. In contrast to nomadism and constant strife over disputed territory, peoples who had clearly defined and protected borders ascended to statehood, maintained a distinct culture, and achieved greater prosperity and security. In contrast, what we suffered from 2021 to 2025 was unprecedented. It was an intentional administration effort to decivilize the nation by destroying its borders—as if to return to the premodern era, when there were no clearly defined or secure borders, and nomadic peoples migrated as they pleased. Stranger still, illegal aliens were at times given precedence over citizens—as immigration law was simply discarded. Without IDs, illegal aliens boarded US flights, while the government ordered citizens to obtain more secure 'real' IDs. Some 8,500 veteran soldiers were drummed out of the military for refusing the experimental mRNA vaccinations. Yet 10 million simply walked across the southern border into America, without a care from the Biden administration whether they were vaccinated, ill, or had criminal records. Any American citizen pulled over for speeding with an invalid driver’s license, while trafficking eight illegal aliens without identification, would be jailed and charged with felony counts. Not Abrego Garcia —the violent spousal abuser, M-13 gang member, and previously deported illegal alien. He was neither arrested nor even cited by the officers who pulled him over. Another hallmark of Western civilization was the creation of a judiciary that gave the state the power to enforce laws, ensure justice, and deter criminals by swift punishment, unaffected by ideology, bias, bribes, and personal vendettas. From the law codes of Justinian to the American Constitution, ascendant civilizations rose with a codified legal system applied uniformly, disinterestedly, and fairly. Not any longer. Ideology has turned the American legal system into a commissariat of sorts in which relativism is now the norm. Vandalize a Tesla in a blue state and, like the South of old, the laws will be lightly if even enforced and applied selectively. No one seriously believes that Alvin Bragg, Letitia James, Jack Smith, and Fani Willis were interested in real crimes rather than concocting them to destroy a presidential candidate and thus warp the political system. In contemporary America, it was far more likely to suffer a jail sentence for walking peaceably but unlawfully in the Capitol than for torching a federal courthouse, historic church or police precinct in the summer of 2020. From the ancient world to the medieval city to the modern era, universities were catalysts for the advance of science, medicine, law, politics, and the humanities. Their civilizing missions were predicated on two unquestioned assumptions. One, unlike prior superstitions, inductive reason would guide intellectual inquiry; examining all evidence would lead to general conclusions rather than cherry picking data to prove predetermined dogmas." (The Decivilizing Of America by Victor Hansen). Rip Van Winkle is a short story classic written by American author Washington Irving. It is the story of an American villager in colonial America who meets a group of mysterious Dutchmen, imbibes their strange intoxicant, and falls asleep in the Catskill Mountains. He sleeps for twenty years and awakens to find a world transformed and rendered unrecognizable by the American Revolution. Imagine a Roman during the days of Rome's decline imbibe a strange soporific which makes him sleep for 1500 years. He awakens in the West to find himself in the same world he lived in. Only the names and characters have changed, while the same mob movement and the same mental sickness producing the same rejection of reason darken this new world. In the twenty first century, an axis of Marxists, Muslims, fascists, communists, environmentalists, national socialists, Christian populists, left wing populists, right wing populists, and old time religionists has brought the West back to ancient Rome and brought it to the end of the line.

RED ACTIVISTS AND THEIR NOBLE SAVAGES

Misery acquaints a man with strange bedfellows. Thus writes William Shakespeare in his play The Tempest. The line is spoken by a man shipwrecked and seeking shelter beside a sleeping monster. It became the basis for the immortal maxim, uttered down through the centuries, that politics makes strange bedfellows, the maxim that political interests can bring people together who have little in common. In the twenty first century, two monsters have joined forces to confront and defeat a common enemy. One monster comes from the land and the other monster comes from the streets, and they have reached out and made common cause. One monster comes from the forests and plains, and the other monster comes from the gutters and sewers, and they have formed an alliance to assassinate the institutions of freedom. The monster from the land is the movement for indigenous rights, the movement proclaiming the rights of original nations to separate from civilization and maintain their savage cultures, territory, language and religion. The monster from the streets is the number one religion of our time, galvanizing the masses as no movement has in modern times, and leading them onward in a campaign to overthrow civilization. Collecting the refuse of disaffected, discontented, frustrated, hate filled human asphalt, and forming it into a mighty Red Army, this movement is known as Marxism, and it has proclaimed comradeship with the defenders of indigenous rights, and together with these defenders, has issued a manifesto of mysticism, tribalism and collectivism, notions vital and integral to the world views of these two movements. The movement of Marxist gender, race and class politics and the movement in defense of indigenous rights march arm in arm, reach into every sector of society, and occupy the chairs of the cultural, political, academic and media establishment. Listen to their joint manifesto and hear the death knell toll for the march of human progress. Listen to it and hear a declaration of war against the Enlightenment. Their manifesto proclaims that a progressive society seeks to overthrow capitalism in the name of justice for indigenous communities. A progressive society seeks to overthrow capitalism in the name of giving a future to indigenous people. A progressive university is led by indigenous pseudoscholars and mob activists. A progressive society exalts indigenous mysticism and folk traditions as the highest forms of wisdom. A progressive society seeks to dismantle the colonial legacies of individual rights under the rule of law in the name of empowering indigenous communities and making them successful. A progressive society seeks to overthrow modern industry and the capitalist system in the name of advancing indigenous prosperity and sustainability. A progressive society exalts indigenous revelation, trance walking and navel gazing as the highest forms of knowledge. A progressive society mystically communes with indigenous lands, hears their voices, and achieves a state of cosmic harmony, justice and equity. A progressive society honors and worships indigenous lands as the mystical Mother Earth. A progressive society seeks to overthrow capitalism in the name of reclaiming indigenous history and culture. A progressive society is a decolonized, deliberalized, deWesternized society which has abolished reason and sanity and communes with the spirits of the dead. A progressive university is a center for teaching, research and indoctrination in the indigenous religion of blood, soil, mystical oneness and deceased ancestors inhabiting the supernatural beyond. A progressive university rejects academic subjects and teaches students how to perform indigenous beading and weaving and how to read mystical indigenous symbols. A progressive university rejects science and the empirical method and promotes indigenous mysticism in the name of fostering crosscultural understanding and dialogue. A progressive university rejects the ideas of the Enlightenment and promotes indigenous feasts, visions, powers, pathways, illuminations, judgments, experiences and the destruction of civilization: "The mission of the Indigenous Futures Lab is to honor and serve local Indigenous communities in their struggles for justice, cocreate Indigenous futures through Indigenous led scholarship and activism, and build coalitions that center the land and all of our relations. At the heart of the Indigenous Futures Lab lies a steadfast commitment to cocreating Indigenous futures through the lens of Indigenous led scholarship and activism. By harnessing the wisdom embedded within Indigenous traditions and contemporary thought, we aim to dismantle colonial legacies and empower communities to envision and build their own paths to prosperity and sustainability. We envision a world where Indigenous knowledges are celebrated, valued, and integrated into global solutions. The Lab stands as a catalyst for change, fostering coalitions that honor the land and all our relations. By nurturing collaborations that respect the land as a knower, we lay the groundwork for a future that is equitable, just, and harmonious for all living beings. Through projects like Piscataway Pathways, we envision Indigenous communities reclaiming their history and cultural resources, and the virtual Decolonizing Death Cafe becoming a cornerstone of supportive Indigenous practices. The Bead, Weave, and Read workshops will weave tradition and innovation together, and the Indigenous knowledges speaker series will facilitate crosscultural understanding and dialogue. Our vision extends to the celebration of community and cultural vibrancy, where events and feasts become spaces of unity, mutual understanding, and shared experiences. The Indigenous Futures Lab is dedicated to illuminating pathways toward a world where Indigenous communities flourish on their own terms, guided by the wisdom of their ancestors and the resilience of their cultures." (Indigenous Futures Lab, University of Maryland). Today's Marxists proclaim that a progressive university exalts indigenous monsters, beasts and alien, unknown animals in a war of resistance against civilized human society. A progressive university condemns capitalism as a lash of settler oppression, fear and control against indigenous communities. A progressive university advocates the overthrow of capitalism in the name of indigenous survival and justice. A progressive university is a religious facility studying, investigating, researching and promoting indigenous visions, voices, psychoses and hallucinations. A progressive university rejects science and teaches students how to use tarot cards. A progressive university condemns capitalism as a regime of colonial oppression of indigenous culture and the suppression of indigenous transgenderism. A progressive university rejects the existence of human sex chromosomes, and the biological basis of human sex differentiation, and proclaims that people can be gender fluid and gender indeterminate, and this recognition of gender mutability was a shining feature of indigenous society. A progressive university advocates the overthrow of capitalism in the name of indigenous feminist rights. A progressive university rejects academic subjects and teaches students propaganda courses in indigenous women, gender and sexuality studies. A progressive university condemns capitalism and civilization as the mortal enemies of the indigenous noble savage. A progressive university condemns capitalism as an inferno of white racist violence against honest, good and generous indigenous people. A progressive university teaches students that America is a copious spring of unmitigated evil because it brought freedom and civilization to the indigenous plains. A progressive university condemns capitalism as a regime of white European, colonial oppression. A progressive university condemns capitalism as a regime of victimization and immiseration of indigenous people and advocates a torrent of blood and violence against the traditions and institutions of the Enlightenment: "The University of Maryland is offering an Indigenous Feminisms course this fall called Monsters, Cryptids, and Beasts of Resistance that will explore 'monstrosity as survival, justice, and resistance' in opposition to 'settler narratives of fear and control.' The course recently prompted harsh criticism from a conservative policy analyst, who said the public university should 'leave my wallet' out of its 'idiocy.' According to a course syllabus that The College Fix obtained through an open records request, the spring semester class used tarot cards to guide discussions and included a final project in which students design their own tarot cards. Assigned readings and videos included the YouTube video How Colonialism Killed My Culture's Gender Fluidity. According to an Instagram story post, the class will 'refuse settler narratives of fear and control' and 'create a bestiary of Indigenous feminist resistance.' 'What makes something monstrous? Who decides what should be feared, erased, or destroyed?' the post states, later adding, 'This course explores monstrosity as survival, justice, and resistance.' A spokesperson for the University of Maryland initially replied to The College Fix's email asking for more information about the lab and the classes, but did not respond to follow up requests. Shelbi Nahwilet Meissner, an assistant professor of women, gender, and sexuality studies, also did not respond to The Fix's emails. Meissner runs the Indigenous Futures Lab. However, Inez Stepman with the Independent Women's Forum, a conservative nonprofit focused on policy issues that affect women, was critical of the project. Stepman, whose expertise is in education policy, said the reasoning behind the lab and similar initiatives stems from belief in the 'noble savage myth.' " (University Of Maryland To Offer Beasts Of Resistance Class Through Indigenous Futures Lab by Madelynn McClaughlin). September 27, 1940. Germany, Italy and Japan form the Pact of Steel, a military alliance whose aim is to spread fascist power across the East and West. At its height in 1942, this fearsome Axis Power controlled large parts of Europe, North Africa and East Asia, and crushed free institutions beneath the iron heel of occupation, annexation and puppet states. Eighty years after the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis tumbled into the dustbin of history, a new axis power has arisen and continued its predecessor's war on civilization. In the twenty first century, an axis of Marxists and indigenous rights groups has blown up the West with bombs marked feminist uprising, black uprising, proletarian uprising, gay uprising, lesbian uprising, transgender uprising, Islamic uprising and anticolonial uprising.

A CRIMINAL STATE CALLED GERMANY

And Cain talked with Abel his brother, and it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother and slayed him. (Genesis 4:48). Fratricide. The act of killing one's own brother. It appears in myths and religions throughout history. In ancient Greek myths, Cassiphone, the daughter of Odysseus and Circe, kills her brother in revenge for his killing of Circe. In ancient Roman myths, Romulus kills his twin brother Remus and becomes Rome's first king and the founder of the city. In the twentieth century, a fratricidal ideological war erupted between two branches of Marxism and this war bloodied nations throughout the West. It was a war fought between the voices of class hatred and class revolution, the voices of original Marxism, and the voices of race hatred and race revolution, a development and offshoot of the original, and the product of the terrifying logic of tribalism. It was a war fought between Marxist communists and Marxist fascists for the control of society. In Italy, the communist Bolsheviks fought the fascist blackshirts led by Mussolini, and in Germany, the communist Bolsheviks fought the fascist brownshirts led by Hitler. In Germany, less than a century after the Third Reich toppled into the dustbin of history, the Bolsheviks and their Red Front Fighters' League, and Hitler's national socialists and their Storm Troopers, are back in business in a big way, with only the names and banners changed. In Germany in the twenty first century, the picture has changed from that of the Third Reich, and the descendants of the communists are now in control of the government, while the fascists are now in the opposition and on the streets, fighting to take over. In Germany in the twenty first century, there is a fratricidal war going on between the latter day voices of the communist redshirts and the fascist brownshirts, each seeking to ban the other, each seeking to prosecute the other and charge it with crimes, as the liberal democratic center melts away under the blazing sun of radicalism, in a morally bankrupt, criminal state. The Communist Establishment. Look at Germany's communist establishment and see it condemn a national socialist party, the Alternative for Germany, which promotes both its core Hitler doctrine, promoting opposition to global capitalism, opposition to global big business, antisemitism, white power, deportation of nonwhites, racial separatism, and racism in the name of German patriotism, and promotes liberal positions as a front. Listen to the establishment condemn as fascist the party's liberal front positions, employing a tactic used by communists since the time of Stalin. Listen to the establishment condemn as fascists all those opposed to Islamic culture. Listen to it condemn as fascists all those opposed to unvetted mass immigration. Listen to it condemn as fascists all those who cite accurate official reports that certain ethnic minorities disproportionately commit violent crimes. Listen to it condemn as right wing extremists all those in favor of the deportation of illegal aliens and the Muslim enemies of free societies. Listen to it place a political party, the Alternative for Germany, under mass surveillance for both its fascist positions and its liberal positions. Listen to it condemn as fascists all those opposed to migration from Arab and African nations which reject Western liberal values. Listen to it condemn as fascists all those in favor of setting high moral standards for immigrants to ensure the highest quality. Listen to it condemn as fascists all those opposed to the culture wars currently being conducted against the West by Muslim immigrants. Listen to it condemn as fascists all those opposed to the philosophies of multiculturalism and moral relativism. Listen to it condemn as fascists all those who defend European liberal Enlightenment civilization. Listen to it condemn as right wing populists all those in favor of the requirement that immigrants assimilate to and accept the Western liberal secular tradition: "Suggesting that Islamic culture is not compatible with Christian society, criticizing 'globalist' elites, claiming that immigration and certain ethnic minorities are linked to higher rates of crime, and even calling for the use of private firms to assist in deportations were all listed as evidence that the populist Alternative for Germany party is a 'right wing extremist' organization. A thousand plus page document produced by Berlin’s Office for the Protection of the Constitution (BfV)—under the direction of former far left interior Minister Nancy Faeser and rushed to implementation in her final hours in power—to justify its decision to classify the antimass migration AfD party as extremists was leaked and published this week by former Social Democrat politician Mathias Brodkorb on his Cicero website. According to Die Welt, the document almost entirely relied on public comments made by AfD politicians rather than any undisclosed information obtained through other means. Thus, it appears that the case to brand the country’s second largest party and the official opposition to the government as an extremist group, which would allow for mass surveillance of the entire party—as has already been done against local branches of the AfD—was built on political opinions. The paper of record noted that much of the socalled evidence consisted of statements which the political spy agency felt were 'incompatible with human dignity' by allegedly espousing 'ethnic nationalist, antiforeign and antiminority, antiMuslim and antiIslamic and antisemitic positions.' The BfV reportedly claimed that AfD Thuringia leader Björn Höcke's comments condemning the influence of 'globalists' and 'financial elites' in conjunction with describing the German government as their 'puppets,' demonstrated an example of antisemitic rhetoric. The document is said to have quoted a 2022 speech, in which he said that the politicians in Berlin were not 'German patriots' but rather 'globalist speech puppets' who act in the interest of 'large American corporations and for globalist masterminds.' The intelligence agency said that while opposition against multiculturalism did not necessarily indicate extremist beliefs, the promotion of 'ethnopluralism', or the belief in separate and distinct nations based on their historical ethnicities, crossed the bounds of acceptable political speech. Again, Höcke was cited for another speech in 2022 in which he warned that if Europe fails to stop mass migration from Arab and African countries, it would 'eliminate Europe for what it has become over thousands of years' and spark a 'cultural meltdown.' 'That's why we need at least temporary foreclosure. It's not just the quantity of people that matters, it's also the quality of people. If we want to survive as a European civilization, then we have to seal ourselves off from mass immigration,' the AfD politician is quoted as saying. The BfV argued that distinguishing migrants by their quality demonstrated an 'antipluralistic view of society would not be compatible with human dignity.' The agency also cited Höcke's use of terms such as the Great Replacement and calling for remigration as evidence of extremism." (Criticizing 'Globalists', Noting Crime Rates Of Migrant Groups Listed As Evidence of AfD's 'Extremism' by Kurt Zindulka). The Fascist Opposition. Look at Germany today and see Hitler's brownshirts come alive. See them seek to overthrow the state and society. See them peddle fascism in the name of the Kingdom of Germany. See them worship a latter day fuhrer as the King of Germany. See them peddle national socialism in the name of citizens of the Reich. See them peddle Jewish conspiracies to take over the world. See them seek to create an alternative state based on the myth of Aryan supremacy. See them peddle narratives of race struggle and the race will to power. See them challenge liberal authority, liberal security forces and the liberal rule of law using caches of guns and bombs. See them shoot down the capital Berlin with the rifles of Aryan race Marxism. See them plan a violent coup, including the kidnapping of government officials, to install nationalist, ethnicist, race based socialism into power. See them peddle race based extremism as the antidote to class based extremism. See them lead a civil war to eradicate their brother communists, eradicate the voices of liberal capitalism, eradicate the institutions of the Enlightenment, and lower the curtain on eighty years of postwar freedom in Germany: "A self declared king of Germany and three of his senior subjects have been arrested and their group banned for attempting to overthrow the state. Peter Fitzek, 59, was among those arrested in morning raids across seven states on Tuesday, which involved about 800 security personnel. The government banned their group, the Reichsbürger, or 'citizens of the Reich,' which seeks to establish the Königreich Deutschland, or Kingdom of Germany. Alexander Dobrindt, German's interior minister, accused the group of attempting to 'undermine the rule of law' by creating an alternative state and spreading 'antisemitic conspiracy narratives to back up their supposed claim to authority.' Fitzek is one of around 25,000 Reichsburger in Germany. Numbers have been growing over the last few years. Many are right wing extremists who peddle racist and antisemitic conspiracy theories. They refuse to recognize the authority of security forces and many possess illegal arms, which has led to shoot outs with police. Officials say that around 2,500 are potentially violent and that 1,350 are classed as right wing extremists. In 2022 dozens of people were arrested, many of them Reichsbürger, for plotting to overthrow the German government in Berlin. They were accused of planning a violent coup, which included kidnapping the health minister, to create 'civil war conditions' to bring down German democracy. In the past, Reichsbürger were often dismissed as eccentric cranks because of their outlandish ideas. But as the far right has grown in strength politically in Germany over the last decade, officials now see them as a serious threat." (Germany Arrests Self Declared King And Bans His Extremist Group by Damien McGuinness).

Germany, October 29, 1918 to March 23, 1933. Fourteen years, four months, three weeks and two days. Before the national socialists seize power, ban the opposition and establish a totalitarian state, this was a time of murders, riots and all manner of political violence between Hitler's armies and Lenin and Stalin's armies. In the twenty first century, the ground forces of Marx's students battle each other in their final war, and have rendered the postwar Federal Republic unrecognizable.

REALITY VERSUS THE DEEP STATE

It is a word for word translation of the original Turkish phrase, derin devlet. Enjoying soaring popularity in the amphitheaters of popular culture, the term deep state refers to a shadowland and a dream. It is the belief in the existence of secret, unauthorized networks of power, actors operating behind the scenes independently of the state's political leadership, conspirators seeking to implement their own agenda in opposition to the people's agenda. A dark coin peddled on conservative media outlets, the term has buyers among psychotic individuals and is a brazen counterfeit coin buying nothing in reality. In the twenty first century, a myth is promoted by conservative pundits in America that Marxism has been established in the nation by a deep state of unelected government officials acting in defiance of the will of the people. According to this myth, the American people yearn for freedom but their yearnings are constantly thwarted by a cabal of deep state actors obeying an alien religion. The American people desire to return to the rule of the Constitution and to the nation's founding ideals but are constantly prevented from doing so by a hidden state within the public state acting without the consent of the governed. The motive behind the construction of this myth is as clear as its character is insane. The motive is to absolve the American people of all responsibility for the abolition of freedom in their nation, and the myth's insanity is revealed by a simple survey of the nation's political history over the past one hundred years since the advent of the New Deal. Fact. The American people today in overwhelming numbers support the doctrine that the individual is his neighbor's keeper. They support the doctrine that the individual is not a free born agent, as maintained by the Enlightenment and traditional Anglo-Saxon thought, but is born into the chains of social responsibility. They support the doctrine that the individual is not an end in himself but is a rightless instrument of society's needs and interests and must be sacrificed to support other people. They support the establishment of a social safety net with stolen tax money. They support the doctrine that the government has the right to rob Peter to pay Paul to subsidize Paul's cradle to grave welfare benefits. They support the nation's culture of welfare dependence and government assistance. They support the state provision of food, housing and healthcare. They support the right of the government to confiscate private wealth to help those who are economically struggling. They support government confiscation of private wealth under the banners of Medicaid, Medicare, Social Security, Social Security for people of retirement age, people with disabilities and survivors of family losses, Children's Health Insurance Plan, Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children, National School Lunch Program, Supplemental Security Income, Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program, the Affordable Care Act and unemployment insurance. America today in the twenty first century, in the tens of millions occupying every sector of society and every station of life, is fed by the state in swine troughs and opium dens marked welfare entitlement: "Nearly 100 million Americans received some form of government assistance in 2019, according to a 2023 estimate from the Department of Health and Human Services. The federal government has assistance programs in place to support Americans who can’t afford food, housing, healthcare, and other needs. This is sometimes referred to as a social safety net, a system of programs designed to support people struggling economically. In 2022, around one in three Americans was enrolled in at least one of those programs, including nearly half of all

American kids. Government assistance programs each have eligibility requirements, which may include income level, family situation, age, and disability status. Some examples of these programs include. The Medicaid and the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP), which provides health insurance for free or at a reduced cost. Social Security for people of retirement age, people with disabilities, and survivors of family losses, including spouses and children. Medicare, a public health insurance program for people who are 65 and older or have certain disabilities. The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), also called food stamps, which offers food benefits. The Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC), which offers nutritional support to mothers, children, and pregnant women. The National School Lunch Program, which offers free or reduced-price lunches to students. Supplemental Security Income (SSI), which provides monthly payments to low income people. Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF), sometimes called welfare, which supports low income families with monthly cash payments. The Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), which subsidizes heating and cooling bills. Rental assistance programs including the Section 8 housing program. Unemployment insurance for people who have lost jobs. The largest programs by total enrollment are Medicaid, Medicare, and Social Security. In 2022, nearly one in four Americans received Medicaid, while Medicare and Social Security each covered around one in five. SNAP followed, offering benefits to 11.7% of Americans. These programs support different populations, based on eligibility. Medicare covered 93.2% of people 65 and older, and Social Security covered 84.3%. The National School Lunch Program provided free or reduced price lunches to 38.7% of the country's children, equivalent to 8.8% of Americans. Many beneficiaries of government assistance programs receive benefits from multiple sources at once. Around five out of every six Medicare beneficiaries also receive Social Security, and vice versa. Nearly 80% of SNAP recipients are also covered by Medicaid or CHIP." (How Many People Receive Government Assistance? USAFacts Team). Fact. The American people today in overwhelming numbers support selection policies promoting racism and sexism in the name of achieving diversity, inclusion, and a special, higher, mystical form of fairness, a form of fairness transcending ordinary, natural, commonsense forms of fairness, a form of fairness which is brazen unfairness and is called equity. They support selection policies excluding white males. They support selection policies sowing race and sex divisions, conflicts and war. They boycott companies which have eliminated DEI racism and sexism and reestabished nondiscriminatory selection policies. They refuse to work for companies which have eliminated DEI policies, or if they work for such companies, they seek to sabotage and undermine them by conducting race and sex wars, harassing white males, filing constant complaints to human resources departments, and halting work, efficiency and productivity. They give standing ovations to companies which have reestablished DEI policies. They refuse to work for companies which have eliminated DEI policies. They refuse to partner with companies which have eliminated DEI policies. They saturate social media with negative publicity on companies which have eliminated DEI policies. They seek to damage the brand and poison brand perception of companies which have eliminated DEI policies. They refuse to dedicate their dollars or their careers to companies which have eliminated DEI policies. They condemn companies which have eliminated DEI policies as biased, unfair, inequitable, unsafe, and disrespectful to women, nonwhites, gays, lesbians and transgenders: "In recent years, diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) initiatives have become highly politicized. What began as a widespread corporate commitment after the 2020 protests has faced growing backlash. Some critics have questioned the effectiveness of DEI efforts, while others have framed them as divisive or exclusionary. Facing political pressure, some companies have scaled back or eliminated their DEI programs. However, walking back these initiatives has brought its own set of challenges. ResumeTemplates' recent survey of 750 US business leaders reveals that some companies that rolled back DEI efforts are now reversing course. Report highlights: 1 in 7 business leaders say scaling back DEI was a mistake. Political pressure was the top reason companies cut DEI. Two in three say their company suffered consequences after cutting DEI, including boycotts and diminished morale. One in three business leaders say DEI is being reinstated; most are doing so quietly. About one third of respondents (33%) say their company experienced no noticeable consequences after reducing or removing DEI initiatives. However, the remaining two thirds reported various negative outcomes, including a decline in employee morale (37%), increased internal conflict or division (33%), and difficulties attracting diverse talent (33%). Additional consequences include damage to brand perception (27%), loss of customers or partners (18%), negative media coverage (16%), and boycotts (9%). 'Consumers, employees, and job seekers are more aware than ever of corporate policies and decisions, and they vote with their dollars and career choices,' says ResumeTemplates' Chief Career Strategist Julia Toothacre. 'When organizations dismantle DEI efforts, it sends a message that they don't care about being fair and equitable. For many customers and workers, that doesn't sit well. Word spreads fast, especially on social media, and I'm not surprised to see companies now rethinking those decisions.' " (1 On 3 Companies That Rolled Back DEI Initiatives Are Reinstating, ResumeTemplates, May 13, 2025). Mobs crowd streets, squares, forums and amphitheaters and demand ever more welfare. They launch a class war, plunder public granaries and the public treasury, and demand an endless expansion of the grain dole, the wine dole, the bread dole and the pork dole. A culture of dependency on state provided food crushes the spirit of the people and reduces them to public wards. Fifteen hundred years after this scene from ancient Rome crumbled into the dust of civilizational collapse, the Roman mobs have come back to life and settled in America in its stages of decline. In the twenty first century, the new Roman mobs in America demand the expansion of Marxism in all its manifestations. They demand endless welfare benefits, endless race and gender preferences in hiring, promotion and school admissions, and an endless theater of tribal politics, agitation, propaganda and violence. They elect governments to give to these things to them and governments do so. Meeting these demands is at the top of governments' agendas. Conservative pundits are in the grip of figments of their feverish imaginations. They have manufactured shadowy networks of government bureaucrats they claim are working against their freedom agenda. They have manufactured an unofficial deep state working alongside of and against the official elected state. In their detachment from reality, they have refused to acknowledge the character of the masses or look at the parallels blazing out from history.

GREENWICH VILLAGE, WASHINGTON SQUARE PARK, MOSCOW

It is unique, a global university system, with campuses in Abu Dhabi, Shanghai, Accra, Berlin, Florence, Buenos Aires, London, Los Angeles, Madrid, Paris, Prague, Sydney, Tel Aviv and Washington DC. Founded two centuries ago under the motto, To perservere and to excel, New York University is one of the largest and most popular universities in America, and its faculty and alumni are part of the who's who of the Western cultural and political establishment. New York University, the academic home, as faculty or students, of 39 Nobel laureates, 8 Turing Award winners, 5 Fields Medallists, 31 MacArthur Fellows, 26 Pulitzer Prize winners, 3 heads of state, 5 United States governors, 12 United States senators and 58 members of the United States House of Representatives, has transformed its mission and character in the twenty first century. Two centuries after it was chartered by the New York State Legislature, NYU, whose storied undergraduate schools, graduate schools and academic centers span the capital cities of the world, has descended into the fever swamps of the number one mass gutter religion of our time. Two centuries after the legendary Albert Gallatin, American politician, diplomat, ethnologist, linguist and official in the top ranks of the nation's early government, founded New York University, the institution has placed its inspirational motto in the service of Marxist gender, race and class politics, and shown just how sick the West has become, and just how far the cancer of far left ideas has advanced, in the new millennium. Two centuries after a nondenominational institution, focused on providing a secular education to university students, first graced the heart of New York City, NYU has shredded its charter and become a global center of Marxist religious indoctrination. Look at the twenty first century manifesto of a New York based red octopus with global tentacles, and see an institution seek to persevere and excel throughout the world in one thing and one thing alone, in the art and science of Marxist agitation and propaganda, and see academic treason blacken Greenwich Village, blacken Washington Square Park, and blacken the university's campuses reaching to the ends of the earth. The new NYU manifesto proclaims that a progressive university advocates the destruction of liberal civilization in the name of feminists, gay, lesbians, transgenders and people of color. A progressive university condemns capitalism as a regime of colonization and exploitation. A progressive university rejects the free and open exchange of ideas and opinions and enforces ideological lockstep. A progressive university rejects liberal, universalist, individualist values and the promotes the politics of race, sex and sexual orientation. A progressive university rejects capitalism and advocates Marxist political economy and the Marxist politics of class. A progressive university rejects the Western liberal classics and promotes the Marxist, black power theologies of WEB DuBois, Angela Davis and Kevin Floyd. A progressive university teaches students the moral superiority of the Soviet Union and Maoist China to Western liberal democracies, and the moral necessity of killing millions of innocent people in the service of communist power. A progressive university promotes critical race theory which is critical of the Enlightenment and worships at the altar of black Marxism. A progressive university rejects the Enlightenment and worships at the altar of gay and lesbian power. A progressive university is a censorship university run by the jackboots of political correctness who exclude the defenders of liberalism, capitalism and the Enlightenment. A progressive university is a classroom for Marxist subversion which seeks to overthrow the authority of liberal law and order. A progressive university is a Marxist university which rejects Enlightenment rationalist humanism in favor of primitive, mystical tribal politics. A progressive university is a Marxist university which rejects the Enlightenment rule of reason and law in favor of political and social engagement, direct action and violence in the streets. A progressive university is a Marxist feminist studies program. A progressive university is a Marxist transgender studies program which rejects the empirically established existence of sex chromosomes, rejects biologically assigned human sex determinations, and proclaims the mutability of human gender. A progressive university teaches students to reject their biologically assigned sex and become members of the opposite sex. A progressive university teaches students that sex and gender are subjective human constructs. A progressive university promotes a global gay, lesbian and transgender movement reaching from the indigenous Americas to South Asia to proletarian Kansas City to the court of Nigerian nobility. A progressive university exalts transgender existence above sane, normal, biologically grounded existence. A progressive university teaches myths and legends composed by transgender activists. A progressive university rejects Enlightenment objectivism and universalism and teaches that truth is relative to race, gender, class and culture. A progressive university condemns capitalism as a regime of imperialism and racial inequality, and leads a student, street, mob revolution to overthrow Western liberal civilization: "New York University students will study 'Marxism through the intellectual traditions of people of color, people from colonized and formerly colonized places, feminists, and queer and trans people' next school year. One education expert told The Fix the course, set for spring 2026, offers a 'skewed perspective' and lacks 'intellectual diversity.' The goal of this course is to address whether 'the historical formations of race, sex and sexuality derive from political economy' or 'these historical formations constitute the substance of class itself,' according to the course description. 'By reading Marx from perspectives often considered marginal to or derivative of economic class, we will trace the answers to this question through historical periods and contexts,' the description states. Students will read left leaning sources from authors such as Karl Marx, WEB Du Bois, Angela Davis and Kevin Floyd, among others. 'Considering the reading assignments, this course appears to lack any sort of intellectual diversity,' Heritage Foundation Senior Research Fellow Jonathan Butcher told The Fix via email. 'Students should be warned that they will be getting a skewed perspective of a philosophy that inspired destructive political movements in the Soviet Union and China—resulting in the deaths of millions upon millions of innocent people,' he said. Further, Butcher said the course 'appears to be soft pedaling critical race theory, queer theory, and decolonization—all worldviews resulting in censorship that have no ultimate goals except for the overthrow of existing authorities.' 'Once the revolution is complete, there is no additional step,' he said. This course will be offered through NYU's Experimental Humanities and Social Engagement department. It will be taught by Professor Emma Heaney, 'a scholar of comparative literature, feminist studies, and trans studies,' according to the school's website. Heaney has edited a collection of essays by trans studies scholars called Feminism Against Cisness, which 'demonstrate the potential of feminist critique freed of the ideology that assigned sex determines sexed experience,' according to the school. The College Fix reached out to Professor Heaney and NYU media relations via multiple emails in the last two weeks asking about how the course topic was chosen and requesting more detail about the content. Neither responded. Heaney will also teach a class in fall 2025 titled Provincializing Cisness. It explores how sex and gender are understood in American colleges and 'surveys the noncis vernacular categories that ordered sex-gender systems,' according to the course description. It uses examples from places like Indigenous Americas, South Asia, working class Kansas City, and 'Nigerian nobility' to show a variety of 'sex-gender systems' outside the Euro-American norm. Looking back at the most recent semester at NYU, Heaney taught a course titled Literature After Cisness. It explored how ideas about 'gay and trans identities' changed over the 1900s and early 2000s, according to the course description. Students studied 'the period after the notion that everyone is cis is disrupted, roughly from the late nineteenth century to the early twenty first,' the description states. Then, they studied 'the last ten years' in which 'trans existence has entered public consciousness in a new way with trans people in charge of the narrative,' it states. This focus on race, gender, and nontraditional perspectives in academia isn't unique to NYU. At Amherst College, a spring 2025 course explored 'critiques of imperialism and racial inequality in US history' by reading comic books, The College Fix previously reported. University of Chicago Professor Rachel Brown previously told The Fix this course is 'predicated on a particular theoretical frame' which 'constrain[s] what students are allowed and/or encouraged to discover in the texts.' " (NYU Offers Course On Marxism Through 'Intellectual Traditions' Of 'Feminists', 'Trans People' by Madison Rehbehn). The new NYU manifesto in the twenty first century proclaims that a progressive university teaches that the existence of sex chromosomes is a Western bourgeois construct. A progressive university teaches that the scientific doctrine of genetic sex determination is a product of capitalist doctors and state bureaucracies. A progressive university teaches that gender identity is arbitrary, subjective, everchanging and indeterminate, and can include male, female, nonbinary and an infinite number of genders: "Most examinations of sex and gender in the American academy take bourgeois national histories of North America and Western Europe as their frame of reference. In the histories of Germany, the UK, France, and the United States, doctors and state bureaucracies incorporated sexual and gendered social practices into a taxonomy of identities (or even species, as Foucault puts it) beginning in the midnineteenth century." (Provincializing Cisness, NYU, Arts and Science). "I want to establish in this immense and fast growing city, a system of rational and practical education fitting and graciously opened to all." Thus spoke Albert Gallatin, Secretary of the Treasury under Thomas Jefferson and James Madison, and founder of New York University. Two centuries after Gallatin realized his vision and became the first president of New York University, the goal of providing rational education has been subverted. Two centuries after New York University received its grant of authority and rights from the New York State legislature, a movement of destruction has taken over the university's world wide campuses and allocated a seven billion dollar endowment to the cause of Marxist revolution.

MARX WINS PALME D'OR AT CANNES

It is the most prestigious film festival in the world. Held in Cannes, France every year since 1939 at the Palais des Festivals et des Congress, it previews film of all genres from nations throughout the world. Until 2003, it was called the International Film Festival. From that point on, it has been called the Cannes Film Festival, and every May, this biggest of the Big Three European film festivals, alongside Venice and Berlin, has awarded the Palme d'Or for best director of a film, the most prestigious award in the film industry. In the twenty first century, the Cannes Film Festival has had double screenings, consisting of official films and unofficial films, the latter exhibiting the political coloration and hijacking to which this storied film festival has been subjected. The unofficial films are screenings of propaganda from the number one religion of our time. It has captured the sewers, the gutters, the streets, the classrooms, the factory floors, the corporate suites, the government offices, the cabinet rooms, the courts of law and the houses of parliament of the nations of the West, and in the twenty first century, it has captured the Cannes Film Festival. This religion is known as Marxism and at the 78th Cannes Film Festival in 2025, it dominated the opening ceremonies, the closing ceremonies and everything in between. At the 78th Cannes Film Festival, the ruling circles of the Western film establishment issued a manifesto of Marxist politics which gave center stage to Marxism's twenty first century comrade in arms in the war to overthrow Enlightenment institutions. At the 78th Cannes Film Festival, the Marxists in charge of Western film production shined the klieg lights on Islam and set the cameras rolling. Listen to the Cannes manifesto and see a screening of just how sick the West is in the twenty first century, and just how far the cancer of far left ideas has advanced, as the culture which gave the world the Enlightenment descends into extinction. Listen to the Cannes manifesto and hear the tanks of a new Marxist-Islamist axis power roll across the West. The new Cannes manifesto in the twenty first century proclaims that capitalism is an Israeli army slaughtering innocent Palestinians. Capitalism is an Israeli army targeting civilians. Capitalism is an Israeli army killing journalists. Capitalism is an Israeli army killing writers, artists and film makers. Capitalism is Israeli settlers spreading brutality in Palestinian terror lands bringing liberation. Progressive cinema is socially and politically committed to Marxist revolution. Capitalism is the infliction of horror and oppression on Palestinian brothers and sisters. Capitalism is a regime which slaughters pregnant women. Capitalism is the perpetration of genocide in Gaza. Capitalism is the commission of unspeakable crimes against Muslims. Capitalism is a regime of racism, sexism, fascism, colonialism, Islamophobia, far rightism, and the killing of gays, lesbians, bisexuals, and transgenders who deny the existence of sex chromosomes and proclaim the human gender is fluid, indeterminate and mutable. Capitalism is a regime of inhumanity against which the Marxist-Muslim freedom fighters of the world must rise up and revolt: "Fatma Hassona was 25 years old. She was a Palestinian freelance photojournalist. She was targeted by the Israeli army on 16 April 2025, the day after it was announced that Sepideh Farsi's film Put Your Soul On Your Hand and Walk, in which she was the star, had been selected in the ACID section of the Cannes Film Festival. She was about to get married. Ten of her relatives, including her pregnant sister, were killed by the same Israeli strike. Since the terrible massacres of 7 October 2023, no foreign journalist has been authorized to enter the Gaza Strip. The Israeli army is targeting civilians. More than 200 journalists have been deliberately killed. Writers, film makers and artists are being brutally murdered. At the end of March, Palestinian filmmaker Hamdan Ballal, who won an Oscar for his film No Other Land, was brutally attacked by Israeli settlers and then kidnapped by the army, before being released under international pressure. The Oscar Academy's lack of support for Hamdan

Ballal sparked outrage among its own members and it had to publicly apologize for its inaction. We are ashamed of such passivity. Why is it that cinema, a breeding ground for socially committed works, seems to be so indifferent to the horror of reality and the oppression suffered by our sisters and brothers? As artists and cultural players, we cannot remain silent while genocide is taking place in Gaza and this unspeakable news is hitting our communities hard. What is the point of our professions if not to draw lessons from history, to make films that are committed, if we are not present to protect oppressed voices? Why this silence? The far right, fascism, colonialism, antitrans and antiLGBTQIA+, sexist, racist, Islamophobic and antisemitic movements are waging their battle on the battlefield of ideas, attacking publishing, cinema and universities, and that's why we have a duty to fight. Let's refuse to let our art be an accomplice to the worst. Let us rise up. Let us name reality. Let us collectively dare to look at it with the precision of our sensitive hearts, so that it can no longer be silenced and covered up. Let us reject the propaganda that constantly colonizes our imaginations and makes us lose our sense of humanity. For Fatma, for all those who die in indifference. Cinema has a duty to carry their messages, to reflect our societies. Let's act before it's too late." (We Are Ashamed, Liberation, May 13, 2025). The 2025 Cannes manifesto proclaims that capitalism is a dark, evil force of dictatorship embodied in people such as Donald Trump. Capitalism is a regime of crass vulgarity, materialism, and opposition to arts and culture embodied in people such as Donald Trump. Capitalism is an authoritarian regime ruled by people such as Donald Trump. Capitalism is an attack on journalism, truth and justice. Capitalism is a regime opposed to democracy. Capitalism is the totalitarian regime portrayed in George Orwell's 1984 and Animal Farm. Capitalism is a regime of thought police. Capitalism is regime which attacks academics and crushes dissent with the jackboots of the thought police. Capitalism makes people afraid to voice their opinions anywhere in public or in the privacy of their own homes. A progressive society is an extreme leftist society whose ministers of culture are Soviet commissars. Capitalism is a regime run by national socialists embodied in the persons of Donald Trump and his supporters. Capitalism is a regime run by insane people springing out of the pages of Mein Kampf, embodied in the persons of Donald Trump and his supporters. A progressive society is a far left activist society on a mission to overthrow the United States government and the institutions of the free world: "Everywhere director Raoul Peck looks he sees America under attack from dark, malevolent forces driven by a President Donald Trump dictatorship. Really, he does. The Haitian filmmaker said as much Monday at the 78th Cannes Film Festival, adding his voice to the swelling chorus of antiTrump despair coming from the elite gathering basking in the Côte d'Azur sunshine. Robert de Niro led festival attendees in slamming Trump from day one, sneering at him as 'America's philistine president.' Now de Niro has company. Peck, who won an Emmy for I Am Not Your Negro, his portrait of American writer James Baldwin, informed wire service AFP of his fears for America's future. The New York based Haitian filmmaker said: 'All the signs are there, all the facts are there, where every section of society is attacked. I hope Americans will realize that they are already in an authoritarian regime. Journalism is attacked. Justice is attacked. The truth is attacked. All the elements that build a democratic society are under attack.' He added George Orwell had warned it would happen in his novels 1984 and Animal Farm and now life imitates art. 'But we still have people saying, 'Oh, they just came for the neighbor, but I'm fine. And no, it's not us, it's Harvard, it's Columbia,' referring to the US universities which have come under scrutiny from the White House. 'That's how dictatorship implements itself in society.' he said. The AFP interview and report continued, adding Peck said the parallels between how academics are now 'under attack' in the United States and the thought police of Orwell's last book were striking. 'When you fear to voice your opinion at work, at school, in your everyday life, and God forbid, in public. What do you call that?' he posited. The Oscar nominated filmmaker, whose body of work centers mostly on extolling the virtues of extreme leftism, was once the Minister of Culture in the Haitian government of Prime Minister Rosny Smarth. He resigned the position in 1997 and fled the violent country where he was born. This is not the first time Peck has seen fit to attack Trump or his supporters. As Breitbart News reported, Peck delivered a stream of invective against the president during an interview at the Joburg Film Festival in April, calling Trump and his followers nazis and insisting the administration is filled with 'crazy people' who are putting millions of lives at risk. 'We are in the hands of a bunch of crazy people who have an agenda that was totally written out in Project 2025, the same way that Hitler wrote Mein Kampf,' the far left, activist film director said during the interview, according to Variety. 'All of it was there to read, and everybody thought he was making a joke. No. They are applying what they said they were going to do.' Peck then seemed to suggest an overthrowing of the US government, and added, 'The question is what are we going to do. We can't tweet our way out of this one.' " (Cannes: Director Raoul Peck Despairs US 'Under Attack' From Trump 'Dictatorship' by Simon Kent). Venice 1937. The Venice Film Festival, at the time the only international film festival, falls under the control of Benito Mussolini and becomes politicized in the service of fascism. The fascists now in charge of Venice suppress Jean Renoir's La Grande Illusion, and later overrule jury decisions and award the Mussolini Cup for the Best Film to Luciano Serra, Pilot, produced by Mussolini's son, and award the Mussolini Cup for Best Foreign Film to Olympia, the German documentary on the 1936 Berlin Summer Olympics, despite regulations at the time prohibiting awards to documentaries. In protest against the politicization of the festival, the French withdrew from it and on May 31, 1939, founded a free, nonpolitical festival in the city of Cannes. Eighty years after the founding of Cannes, the original free, nonpolitical festival has become a distant memory. The spirit of Venice has invaded a French Riviera resort town and replaced Mussolini's blackshirts with Marxists of another stripe. The new Marxists in charge, brothers of the blackshirts, march under the banners of Gaza, Hamas, Palestine, Islam, global terror attacks, and gender, race and class politics in the final screening of the war against civilization.

HORROR IN THE WATER

A wetland is an area of ground flooded in water. Wetlands exist on every continent except Antarctica and are either dominated by trees, and are called swamps, or dominated by nonwoody plants, and are called marshes. The swamp or marsh is a transitional zone between a waterbody, such as a lake, and dry land, and poses a constant danger to the vegetation in its midst. The saturation, the inundation, the mass of water covering the soil ever seeks to submerge the plant life reaching out from it and send it to the bottom darkness. In the twenty first century, the former leader and arsenal of the free world has descended into a moral, social, cultural and economic wetland, and exhibited just how sick the West has become in the present day and just how far the cancer of far left ideas has advanced. In the twenty first century, this cancer has spread across the United States of America, made it walk in the footsteps of the degenerate age of Rome dominated by subsidized bread and circuses, public doles of pork and wine, amphitheaters screaming with bloodthirsty mobs, and proletarian class wars, made it walk in the footsteps of Soviet Russia, Maoist China, Castro's Cuba and Pol Pot's Cambodia, and made a nation founded as a constitutional republic during the Age of Enlightenment, morally, socially, culturally and economically unrecognizable. In the twenty first century, America has reached the end of the line, and from a journey commencing with the New Deal, has crashed into the wetlands of a socialist nightmare. In the twenty first century, America has reached the culminating point of a development which commenced a century before, a development which for one hundred years has peddled socialism as the highest form of progressivism, and enacted the programs and policies of a movement seeking to abolish human existence. In the twenty first century, America has fallen in the grip of a malarial fever, filling it with animus toward the freedom of the individual guaranteed under its constitution, and sending it charging against civilization. Listen to the American wetlands, malarial manifesto of the new Marxist dispensation and hear the death knell toll for the sole bearer of rights and the sole producer of wealth in the world. Hear the death knell toll for the individual. The twenty first manifesto of America proclaims that capitalism is an oligarchical regime in which people become wealthy at the expense the working class. A progressive society is a minimum wage society which puts affluence into the pockets of the nonproducing poor. A progressive society is a state controlled society owned by the scum of the earth. A progressive society guarantees everybody an income regardless of character, competence, merit or desert. A progressive society is a redistributionist society confiscating all the wealth of those who earned it and giving it to those who have not. A progressive society has a progressive tax code which taxes wealth producers at a rate of 100 percent. A progressive society is one in which the rabble receive more welfare benefits than they have paid for and are parasitic upon the class of wealth producers. A progressive society taxes wealth producers to death, taxes their salaries, dividends, capital and earnings of all kinds, and allocates the spoils to the nonproducing plebeian and proletarian classes. A progressive society is a Social Security society guaranteeing old age pensions to the underworld. A progressive society reduces self employed individuals to farm animals for the people. A progressive society is a Medicare society guaranteeing health care to retired idlers and shirkers. A progressive society is an Affordable Care Act society guaranteeing health care to the bacteria swimming in the sewers. A progressive society is a Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program feeding the nation's swine from public troughs. A progressive society is a housing subsidies society guaranteeing shelter to the savages of the jungle. A progressive society is a social spending society financed by income taxes, payroll deductions and capital taxes imposed on everything the wealth producers own and have earned. A progressive society is a communist collection process taxing honest workers out of existence. A progressive society supports the lowest stratum of subhuman existence from its communist treasury. A progressive society is a multitrillion dollar welfare society which allocates one hundred percent of the government budget to showering largesse on the bread and circuses mobs. A progressive society elects a government with one purpose and one purpose alone: the confiscation and redistribution of income. A progressive society is a social expenditures leviathan financed by one hundred percent tax rates imposed on successful people, and is an antirich hate center excusing the poor from paying taxes for the benefits they receive, and giving them refundable tax credits. A progressive society is a government transfer payments society, an equal guaranteed income for all society, a society run by the lowest classes who do no work, an economic floor and safety net supporting human decaying matter, a low ceiling restraining the talented and the ambitious, and an upside down universe rewarding the worthless and chaining the Atlases to the chariots of the new Roman masses: "Bernie Sanders and AOC just completed their tour of America to sell out crowds. Their message was a familiar one: oligarchs (mainly Republicans) are becoming more and more wealthy at the expense of everyone else. I spent much of my working life in the field of taxation. I have heard all the jokes about death and taxes, green eyeshades, and accountants walking into bars. So, bear with me as we take a closer look at the government’s efforts to narrow the wealth gap. The data are pretty clear. In 1990, the top 21 percent owned 61 percent of the country’s wealth. By 2023, they owned 70 percent. So, yes, the rich are getting richer. Bernie offers a number of suggestions to close the wealth gap: more taxes on the affluent, higher minimum wages, more welfare. He has in the past supported basic universal income, a scheme whereby everyone is guaranteed a minimum income, regardless of the individual’s ability, education or work ethic. These remedies ignore existing government policies that redistribute wealth from the top to the bottom--a rather glaring oversight in view of the magnitude of these programs. To start with, the US tax code is highly progressive. As noted by the Wall Street Journal, 'IRS data for 2022 show that the top 1% of filers paid 40.4% of income tax revenue. The top 10% shouldered 72% of the revenue burden. The bottom half of filers, combined, paid 3%, and that’s an overstatement because it doesn’t account for refundable credits.' So how about those refundable credits? If your income is low enough, the IRS will give you a cash refund--a kind of negative income tax. When you add in refundable credits, the bottom half receives more than they pay in taxes. Capital gains are taxed at lower rates than earned income, prompting the left to cry out that the wealth of the patrician class is taxed more lightly than the wages of the plebs. But let's remember that shares are taxed three times--once as corporate earnings, then again as dividends and finally as capital gains. (Let's not even get into the estate tax.) When you add it all up, tax rates are considerably higher on capital than on labor, especially in the lower brackets. Turns out, all forms of the income tax are highly progressive. So how about those payroll taxes? It's true that Social Security phases out at $176,100, absolving higher earners from any further contributions. But it's also true that employers are required to fund one half of the Social Security nut. Self employed people get to pay both the employee and employer portions. When it comes time to retire, benefits paid to low earners (relative to their contribution) are five times greater than high earners. Medicare operates along similar lines, except there is no phase out for higher wages. Beneficiaries all receive the same insurance without regard to the taxes they paid in. My inner accountant notes that redistribution is baked into the revenue collection process itself, before the money even arrives at the Treasury, before even a dollar of expenditures. So how about those expenditures? Let's put aside Social Security and Medicare, which are, for the moment, largely funded by payroll taxes. That leaves the programs financed by the income tax. Medicaid, food stamps, federal housing subsidies and almost 100 other means tested programs added up to $1.6 trillion in 2023. That's twice as much as defense. My inner accountant tells me that total social spending, funded by both income and payroll taxes, is big, $3.95 trillion in 2023. If you exclude debt service on the grounds that interest is met through additional borrowing, social spending is 74 percent of the total budget. The size and scope of these initiatives suggest that the primary purpose of the federal government is not defense, nor environmental protection nor national parks, but the redistribution of income. My inner accountant, ever skeptical, says: Yes, it's true, the numbers are big, but are they big enough? Will progressive tax rates, refundable credits and massive social expenditures support the lower classes of society? Former congressman Phil Gramm has done extensive research into this very question. The results are astonishing, at least to me. Gramm compared the income of the bottom three quintiles of American households--after taking government transfer payments and income taxes into account. In 2017, the first quintile, the lowest, had an average income of $48,806, the second quintile had $50,492 and the third quintile had $61,350. Not a whole lot of difference, especially when you consider that the third quintile is working a lot more hours than the first." (Universal Income? It's Already Here by Kevin Brady). Natural wetlands are precious natural resources which are being disturbed by uncontrolled human activity. They are being disturbed by dredging, overfishing, and excessive oil and gas extraction. Wetland conservation aims at protecting this resource and seeks to identify "wetlands of international importance." Strong arming, subverting and expropriating the individual in the service of the state, the moral, social, cultural and economic wetlands which are socialism are a scourge on mankind which civilized people have for centuries have sought to drain. In the twenty first century, they have rolled into America and submerged the Constitution.

WHITE MAN: RUN FOR YOUR LIFE

They were killed with axes, poles and all manner of farm implements. The sites of their mass burial are known as the Killing Fields and memorials have been constructed throughout the world in honor of them. These are the victims of genocide in Pol Pot's Cambodia. The mass murder of tens of millions of kulaks, or property owning peasants, in the Soviet Union, condemned as class enemies by the government. The mass murder of tens of millions of property owners in Maoist China, condemned by the government as class enemies: "According to research, in 1949 there were around 10 to 15 million members of the landlord and rich peasant classes nationwide. By the end of the 1970s, when the Cultural Revolution had ended, only 10 to 15 percent of them remained alive." (Classicide In Communist China by Harry Wu, Comparative Civilizations Review, December 1, 2012). Auschwitz, May 1944. Jews arrive at this extermination complex in German occupied Poland and are sent to the gas chambers, condemned by Hitler's government as enemies of the race. These are acts of genocide committed by Marxist movements of one stripe or another, committed by movements murdering in the name of a class or of a race, committed by henchmen of the number one religious and political movement of our time, committed by a movement which has galvanized the gutters and sewers of society like no other movement in modern times, committed by a movement which has drowned the world in rivers of blood. This movement is known as Marxism and its hate fueled violence has claimed more victims than any other religious or political movement in history. In the mid twentieth century, Marxism, obeying the terrifying logic of tribalism, developed additional branches, taking their place alongside of proletarian supremacy and Aryan supremacy. In the mid twentieth century, Marxism developed the creeds of feminist supremacy and black supremacy, and these movements commenced a war against males and a war against whites. In the twenty first century, Marxist black supremacists have intensified their campaign to exterminate whites as the West descends into extinction. In the twenty first century, the West has reached the end of the line, and a movement which saw class hatred against the bourgeois and race hatred against Jews, which peddled regressive tribal politics as the highest form of political progressivism, has reloaded Stalin's rifles and restarted Hitler's gas chambers, and is slaughtering whites. In the twenty first century, the descendants of Marx, Lenin, Stalin, Mao, Hitler and Pol Pot have issued a manifesto of genocide against whites, following in the footsteps of their class hating and race hating ancestors, and are increasing at a logarithmic rate Marxism's global cemetery of victims, a cemetery whose headstones are the headstones of the West. The twenty first century manifesto of black Marxism proclaims that a progressive society is run by the Marxist left and its black political class. A progressive society makes whites flee to the ends of the earth to escape a genocidal hate machine stoked by Marxism. A progressive society has enacted antiwhite racism as official government policy. A progressive society has established antiwhite rhetoric as the official language. A progressive society kills whites in the name of social justice. A progressive society is a racist society which seeks to remove whites and resettle them into outer darkness. A progressive society is run by dyed in the wool black Marxists who have closed the immigration gates to whites, condemning them as unwanted, unwelcome, undesirable people. A progressive society is an establishment of racism which blasts hatred of whites from all its platforms, from every level of government, from federal legislators to state legislators to governors to mayors, and from its manifold media outlets and websites. Capitalism is a regime of white supremacy and terror attacks against blacks. A progressive society is a black power society legalizing violence against whites. Donald Trump and his supporters are fascist, racist, violent, white supremacists because they support the Enlightenment ideas of individual rights, color blind law and equal treatment for all. A progressive society confiscates the wealth of whites and redistributes it to blacks in the name of reparations for slavery which existed over a century before. A progressive society is run by its black population saturated in hatred of whites. Capitalism is a regime run by incorrigible, unredeemable white racists. A progressive society punishes whites today for the sins committed by whites in the distant past on the mystical doctrine of collective responsibility reaching across generations. A progressive society opposes peaceful race relations, foments a race war between blacks and whites, and gives blacks the military power and legal protection to wipe out whites. A progressive society indoctrinates blacks in antiwhite propaganda, telling them that whites are murderous race supremacists and that they must defend themselves against whites by massacring them. A progressive society is run by politicians such as Barack Obama who seek to undermine racial harmony, whip up bestial hatred of whites among the black citizenry, and lead blacks in a Hitler style Kristallnacht to smash up white people, white places and white businesses. A progressive society demonizes the white population and ignites bonfires to burn whites in. A progressive society encourages blacks to attack whites and pillory them in the public square. A progressive society is a religious society which enforces on its black congregations the Devil's doctrine of race based hatred and race based discrimination, and organizes a holocaust against whites, Enlightenment institutions and Western civilization: "The reaction of the American left and its adjacent black political class to the arrival of 59 white refugees fleeing de facto genocide in South Africa, combined with everaccelerating racist rhetoric and demands from America's black population has further exposed the depth of antiwhite racism in the United States and accelerated race fatigue among the vast majority of the American population. The Episcopal Church Migration Ministries, contractually obligated to the federal government to assist in resettling refugees regardless of race or nationality since 1988, has terminated its participation in the program because of a few white South Africans refugees declaring, 'In light of our church's steadfast commitment to social justice and reconciliation, we are unable to take this step.' Bishop Sean W. Rowe, in a self damning, openly racist statement abetting the antiwhite rhetoric of the black political class, said: 'It's against what we stand for to help white refugees fleeing South Africa.' Further, 'We can't be ourselves in the Episcopal Church and take this step of resettling white Afrikaners from South Africa.' A CNN consisting primarily of black former Obama and Biden staffers and dyed in the wool leftists, declared that being victims of crimes does not entitle white South Africans to asylum in the United States and that they are not the type of immigrants we want in our country because they are white. These openly racist comments are not surprising, given that there is among the black political class a constant and endless drumbeat of antiwhite rhetoric from virtually every black member of Congress, state legislators, mayors, and many of those now seeking political office. Almost all of them are enthusiastically supported by the majority of black media outlets and websites. Representative Summer Lee (D-PA) recently claimed, 'White supremacy is rampant in this country, just look at the current administration, they have contributed to racial terrorism.' Representative Ayanna Pressley (D-MA) offered her own spin: 'The United States [i.e. the white population] owes us a debt; we need reparations now.' She cited 'emboldened white supremacy' as a catalyst for the introduction of reparation legislation costing $14 trillion (or 2.5 years of all taxes collected by the Federal Government). According to Representative Jasmine Crockett (D-Texas): 'We right now have a white supremacist sitting in the White House. He is backed by other white supremacists. If you really want to know who are the criminals are in this country, you can google it. The people that commit 80 percent of the most violent crimes in this country are white supremacists, yet for whatever reason, they sit and serve at the pleasure of the president.' In fact, per FBI data, in 2023, blacks, who make up 12% of the population, committed 46% of all violent crimes. Martin Luther King would be aghast at the current state of race relations in America, as race based hatred now permeates much of the black population, abetted by their white sycophants among the far left. Their underlying belief is that whites are not only historically unredeemable racists but, as Matt Walsh of The Daily Wire observed, 'They want us to believe that white people are somehow not native or indigenous to any place on earth.' Therefore, whites are deserving of never ending disdain and persecution for their innumerable past sins. For forty five years (1964 to 2009), the United States experienced noteworthy progress in race relations. Thanks to the efforts of individual citizens in their communities throughout all regions of the country, this nation was well on its way to racial healing. In 2008, only 18% of Americans were greatly concerned or worried about the state of race relations in the country, as nearly 70% thought that relations between whites and blacks were very or somewhat good. In 2009, the most divisive and societally destructive president in American history, Barack Obama, came into office determined to reverse this trend by manipulating the black citizenry into abandoning racial harmony. To do so, he maliciously demonized the white population." (Race Fatigue In The United States by Steve McCann). They were condemned as "the embodiments of everything that was wrong with modernity." (Ideologies Of Race. A Companion To The Holocaust by Dan Stone). Condemned as the embodiments of the Enlightenment. Condemned as the embodiments of reason, science, empiricism, liberal democracy, and the doctrine of human universalism and essentialism. They were Jews, and the Third Reich inundated the German people with propaganda against them. Eighty years after the smashing and burning of synagogues across Europe, after the mass hounding, harassment, expropriation and deportation of Jews, and after the Final Solution launched against them, the race haters are back in business in a big way. Graduates like their national socialist predecessors from the Marxist school of tribal politics, today's black supremacists have changed Hitler's hate targets and placed the Jewish Badge on the white population.

GHOST TRAIN STOPS AT 1600 PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE

A zombie is a soulless human corpse, still dead, but taken from the grave and endowed by sorcery with a mechanical semblance of life—it is a dead body which is made to walk and act and move as if it were alive. (The Magic Island by William Seabrooke). Zombie. A human corpse with the mere appearance of life. A dead body made to speak and act by means of magic and witchcraft. From January 20, 2021 to January 20, 2025, this popular figure from the world's annals of horror and folklore led the government and arsenal of the West, and his existence and leadership shocked the conscience of civilized people. From January 20, 2021 to January 20, 2025, a mythological undead revenant left the darkness of ancient religion and myth and occupied the highest office of the free world's highest policeman, and brought his nation to the brink of collapse. From January 20, 2021 to January 20, 2025, a reanimated dead man brought to life by the sorcerers of latter day Voodoo assumed the appearance of the president of the United States and led his nation into a maelstrom of Marxist politics demanded by his mob supporters, and made his nation unrecognizable. From January 20, 2021 to January 20, 2025, Joe Biden served as the forty sixth president of his nation, and was as mentally nonexistent as his government was illegitimate, the 2020 election which installed him into power having been rigged and stolen. Preceded by Donald Trump and succeeded by Donald Trump, Joe Biden was a ghost surrounded by Marxist electricity, and the charges he sent forth surged into every sector of society. They were the culmination of one hundred years of socialist and statist agitation, beginning with the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, peddled as the highest form of social and political progressivism. Ghost In The Government. Look at the White House between January 20, 2021 and January 20, 2025 and see a figure devoid of mental health and competence. See a signing machine and motorized mechanical arm parading as president of the United States. See executive orders issued under the name of a person who had mentally and spiritually ceased to exist. See mass pardons, including those for family members, issued under the name of a person reduced to a shadow. See a president under the control of his cabinet, staff and advisors. See a president disengaged from decision making and unable to take action. See a president devoid of the mental conditions necessary for human existence. See a president caught in a spiral of mental and physical deterioration. See a president without mind, memory or means of perception. See a president unaware of his surroundings, mentally and physically absent from his office, and existing and running the government in name only: "Republicans want to investigate former President Joe Biden’s use of the autopen. Did he personally grant broad (and possibly unconstitutional) pardons for family members, members of the January 6 Committee and Anthony Fauci, or did someone else make the decision? Was he responsible for all the executive orders issued under his name, or did White House personnel make those decisions? If he did not personally sign various documents, are they valid? The House has announced that the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform will be investigating Biden’s use of an autopen to sign documents such as the pardons issued just before he left office. Representative James Comer (R-Ky.) said in a statement he plans to subpoena former Biden aides Annie Tomasini, Anthony Bernal and Ashley Williams, who he claims 'ran interference' for Biden and may have overseen the use of the autopen. Meanwhile, Senator Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) is demanding the upper chamber hold hearings on Biden's health and competence, and rightly so. He wants to interview people who were close to the former president. As he told Axios, 'We have to. I mean, who was running the government?' The Justice Department has taken up the issue as well, under the leadership of newly appointed Pardon Attorney Ed Martin, whose nomination to become Washington DCs US Attorney failed. Democrats may soon wish that they had not blocked his prior appointment. This is not just political posturing. The Washington Examiner reports: 'According to public filings and internal memoranda obtained by congressional investigators, a significant number of clemency warrants were executed using batch format autopen signatures, raising questions about whether Biden was directly involved in the process.' These inquiries have been spurred by new revelations about the president's declining mental condition gleaned from the recently released Original Sin written by CNN's Jake Tapper and Axios's Alex Thompson, which chronicles the extreme measures taken to hide Biden's deterioration from the public. In addition, audio tapes of special counsel Robert Hur's interview with Biden showed not just an 'elderly man with a poor memory,' as Hur generously described Biden, but a person who has experienced serious mental decline. His confusion and lapses have raised even more questions about who was in charge of the country between 2021 and 2024. It's become increasingly clear that it was not Biden." (Who Was Really Running The Country While Biden Was President? by Liz Peek). Rigged Election. The 2020 presidential election was stolen by the Democrat Party by the halting of ballot counting when results favored Donald Trump. It was stolen by millions of mail in ballots manufactured for Joe Biden. It was stolen by ballot batch dumps of manufactured votes for Joe Biden. it was stolen by false Biden ballots belieing electoral trends favoring Trump: "Curriculum standards to be implemented in Oklahoma public schools next academic year include a change to how the 2020 election is taught. The revised standards call for classrooms to identify 'discrepancies in 2020 elections results by looking at graphs and other information, including the sudden halting of ballot counting in select cities in key battleground states, the security risks of mail in balloting, sudden batch dumps, an unforeseen record number of voters, and the unprecedented contradiction of 'bellwether county' trends.'" (New Oklahoma Curriculum Standards To Teach 'Discrepancies In 2020 Elections Results' by Lexi Lonas Cochran). The 2020 presidential election was stolen by an act of information suppression in the nation's digital town square. It was stolen by the FBI, which violated the right of free speech and the right to vote in free and fair elections when it coerced Twitter and Facebook into suppressing news stories describing the greatest political scandal in American history. These were stories describing a global influence peddling operation conducted by Joe Biden when he was vice president. In this operation, Biden's son Hunter gave foreign officials access to his father in exchange for massive bribes. The FBI's act of censorship prevented millions of voters from knowing the truth about Biden and changed the outcome of the election: "At 5:00 am ET, on Wednesday, October 14, 2020, less than three weeks before the 2020 presidential election, the New York Post published a potentially election-altering news story about a years long influence peddling scheme carried out by the family of the Democratic nominee for president, former Vice President Joe Biden. The Post article detailed how Hunter Biden leveraged his famous last name to provide foreign officials with access to his father in exchange for the Biden family's significant financial gain. This information was recovered from the hard drive of a laptop attributed to Hunter Biden, and the article included pictures of a signed federal subpoena, demonstrating that the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) had seized that hard drive. Neither Hunter Biden nor the Biden presidential campaign denied the allegations or the provenance of the laptop; indeed, the Biden Department of Justice (DOJ) has since authenticated the laptop as evidence in federal court. Soon after the Post article was published, however, something strange happened. Almost immediately, major social media platforms, including Twitter and Facebook—the modern day digital town square—censored the true story about Biden family influence peddling. As a consequence, millions of Americans cast their presidential vote unaware of serious, credible allegations of misconduct levied against one of the two candidates. This censorship served to benefit one candidate over the other and wrongfully affected the 2020 election. Today, these companies and their executives belatedly admit that their censorship was wrong. Why were the social media companies so ready to censor a true story about Hunter Biden featured in a prominent American newspaper? Because the FBI had primed them for it." (Election Interference: How The FBI 'Prebunked' A True Story About The Biden Family's Corruption In Advance Of The 2020 Presidential Election, Committee on the Judiciary and the Select Subcommittee on the Weaponization of the Federal Government, US House of Representatives, October 30, 2024). Marxist Revolution. Look at the Biden presidency and see the culmination of eighty years of Marxist politics commencing with Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal. See the nation's borders dissolved and tens of millions of illegal aliens allowed to invade, settle, and spread terror, gang wars and crime in the streets. See the establishment of a multitrillion dollar cradle to grave entitlement state abolishing individual freedom and responsibility. See the establishment of a nationwide class of drug dependent parasites addicted to the opium of an endlessly expansive welfare state. See the image of a person, the model of a person, the wraith of a person, an unreal specter, encased and mummified in a sealed chamber, deliver a message of Marxism from teleprompters scrolling down scripts. It is a message justifying racism and sexism, and discrimination against white males, in the name of achieving diversity, inclusion, and a special, higher, mystical form fairness transcending ordinary, natural forms of fairness, a form of unfairness called equity. It is a message condemning those who support the ideas of the Enlightenment, the ideas of reason, liberalism, capitalism, antisocialism, individual rights and nonracial, nongender human essentialism, as the fascist, white supremacist supporters of Donald Trump, and advocating their extermination. The ghost was the forty sixth president of the United States. His name is Joe Biden: "Somewhere between 10 and 12 million illegal aliens were invited into the United States by the Biden administration. Why cost the nation hundreds of billions of dollars in massive new entitlements? Why turn loose half a million criminal aliens and gang members to prey on our own weak and defenseless? Was the idea to alter the demography in one fell swoop? To grow the dependent class, thereby expanding government? For the next four years, they put their waxen effigy in a hermetically sealed cocoon—one of avoidance of the press, three day workweeks, and four hour workdays. Yet Biden could still not read huge font, teleprompted scripts. He could not finish a simple call for unity without snarling, screaming, and damning his opposition as 'semifascists,' 'ultraMAGA,' and 'garbage.' Did his pseudocentrist cover ensure that his handlers—the Obama crowd, the DEI chauvinists, and the Sanders socialists—could enact from the shadows the most radical agenda since 1933?" (Would The Left Finally Explain The Inexplicable? by Victor Davis Hansen). The term triple zero is a medical term referring to a patient who dies. The patient is observed to be unconscious, without pulse and without heart sounds. The term gave rise to the famous toll free Triple Zero telephone number used to report life threatening emergencies. From January 20, 2021 to January 20, 2025, America was a triple zero nation. A mentally nonexistent president was installed in an election with nonexistent freedom and fairness, and proceeded to enact a morally nonexistent Marxist agenda. A triple zero for America as it descends into extinction.

MARXIST MUSLIM MADNESS

A young couple who worked for the Israeli Embassy have been shot dead outside a Jewish museum in Washington DC. Police say the victims, Yaron Lischinsky and Sarah Lynn Milgrim, were killed by a man who shouted 'free, free Palestine' while he was arrested. Elias Rodriguez has been charged with two counts of first degree murder in relation to the shooting. Social media accounts belonging to him indicate that he was heavily involved in the proPalestinian protest movement. An online story indicated that he was associated with a communist group, The Party for Socialism and Liberation, and had been interviewed as a member of the group. (What We Know About Israeli Embassy Staff Shooting by Andre Rhoden-Paul, Ian Aikman and Mike Wendling). Free Palestine. The Party for Socialism and Liberation. These are the shibboleths of subversion voiced by an axis power which has assumed control over the West in the twenty first century. This axis power consists of two political movements capturing the allegiance of the moral sewers of society and forming a rising tide of civilizational collapse. One movement has declared war against freedom in the name of tribal politics, in the name of gender, race, class and intersections of these, while the other has declared war against freedom in the name of Allah and his Prophet. The first movement is known as Marxism, the other is known as Islam, and between them they have captured the allegiance of billions of people throughout the world, and formed a two headed global monster on a rampage against the Enlightenment. Marxism and Islam: two dark rivers of revolution meeting, commingling and submerging the world in moral filth. Marxism and Islam: two flowing bodies of blood and gore placing people devoted to reason, liberty and the rule of law in the grip of panic and fear. In the twentieth century, Marxists and Islamists first reached out to each other; the Communist Bloc supported the Arab cause and the campus New Left supported Palestinian terror; and in the twenty first century, they have issued a manifesto of final victory over Western liberal Enlightenment institutions, razed to the ground by the masses worshiping mysticism and collectivism under the banners of social groups on earth or old time, otherworldly religion. The manifesto of the Marxist-Islamist axis in the twenty first century proclaims that a progressive society is an amphitheater thundering with violence and bloodshed, killing innocent people in the name of socialism and the Prophet. A progressive society condemns all those opposed to Muslim terror as Islamophobic. A progressive society leads a culture war to overthrow liberal democratic institutions. A progressive society defends criminals committing mass murder in the name of social justice and the community of the faithful. A progressive society shouts solidarity with Hamas as its massacres Israelis. A progressive society condemns Israelis as inhuman because they support liberal capitalist, Western style government. A progressive society incites the killing of Jews and Israelis in the name of free Palestine, a Palestine free of freedom and law. A progressive society is a sanctuary for Jew hating terrorists. A progressive society is an officially antisemitic society. A progressive society is a Marxist and Islamist fever swamp blazing against individual rights. A progressive society rejects liberal peace and harmony and is run by violent Marxists and Islamists. A progressive society is an Islamic State dedicated to decimating the citizens of America, Israel and the West. A progressive society is a snipers' nest of political assassinations directed against Jews. A progressive society is a propaganda press whose hoodlum journalists are without moral compass, awarding columns and pages to Islamic terror and barbarism. A progressive society is an Islamic community screaming out with antisemitic overexcitement. A progressive society is a college campus teaching a curriculum embracing terror attacks, Jew hate and Islamic supremacy. A progressive society is a university run by gunman whose major subjects are intifada and the manifold ways to eliminate Jews. A progressive society is an embassy from the Devil's kingdom carrying Marxist and Islamist cables of civilizational destruction. A progressive society exalts the Marxist and Islamist perpetrators of crimes against humanity and disparages their untold victims. A progressive society is run by Marxist and Islamist shooters placing bullseyes on the backs of Jews, Israelis and liberal citizens of the West. A progressive society is run by antiIsrael fanatics seeking to slaughter all Jews. A progressive society is a leftist society run by psychotics worshiping violence as the highest form political expression: "After a bloodthirsty socialist murdereed Israeli Embassy staffers Yaron Lischinsky and Sarah Milgrim on Wednesday night, conservative commentator Scott Jennings acerbically noted, 'If Biden or Harris were president we'd be getting a scolding right now for this epidemic of Islamophobia.' His comment struck me as a bullseye worth repeating. In this culture war that divides our nation (and Western civilization more generally), those on the political left excuse monsters and vilify victims. The shooter wrote a damning manifesto that expresses his solidarity with Hamas and his belief that Israelis 'have forfeited their humanity.' He also shouted, 'Free Palestine' when being arrested. It took no time at all for President Trump to condemn the political assassinations as 'obvious' acts of 'antisemitism.' Yet the New York Times is confused as to what might have motivated the Jew hating terrorist. As the brain of the Democrat party's central nervous system, the NYT reveals just how mentally handicapped the loony left is. Almost a decade ago, the late, great Norm Macdonald excoriated the left for its moral imbecility when he joked, 'What terrifies me is if ISIS were to detonate a nuclear device and kill 50 million Americans. Imagine the backlash against peaceful Muslims!' It was a darkly funny observation to anyone not plugged into the corporate news media's matrix because Islamic apologists in the press had been performing a similar routine for years. After every incident of Islamic terrorism post 9/11, the propaganda press skipped over the atrocity and instead hyperventilated about how it might affect the Islamic community. Every act of Islamic barbarism was framed in the most sympathetic light, whereas any condemnation from a nonMuslim was derided as prejudice. In the years since Macdonald lampooned the Fourth Estate for its moral dyslexia, journalism's sense of right and wrong has gotten only more contorted. Sure enough, CNN was back at it within hours of Wednesday's political assassination. Concerned about the possibility that sane Americans might see the connection between the Jew hate on college campuses and the Jew hate that inspired the execution of a young couple working for the Israeli Embassy, CNN prodded a witness to the terrorist attack—a recent graduate of Columbia University, no less—to distinguish the actions of campus protesters from the actions of the gunman. He soundly rejected CNN's rhetorical defense of Islamic supremacy: 'At Columbia University they call for intifada constantly. They're not quiet. They're loud. You can hear it. They make recordings of themselves. So what's the difference?' At Columbia and many other universities, Islamic supremacists call for the elimination of Jews. When someone goes out into the world to eliminate Jews, he answers the calls of likeminded leftists everywhere. But the psychotic reprobates at CNN insist that those who incite terrorism have no interest in encouraging terrorism. Channeling Norm Macdonald, CNN instead begs viewers to think about how the actual slaughter of Jews might affect the reputations of antiIsrael zealots who simply call for the slaughter of Jews. As should be quite clear to anybody with two active brain cells, the political left sees violence as a perfectly legitimate form of political expression." (Violent Leftists Strike Again by J. B. Shurk). The Marxist-Islamist axis in the twenty first century proclaims that a progressive society tolerates, encourages and mandates antisemitism. A progressive society is run by intersectional tribes of black communists, black women, black gays, black lesbians, black transgenders and black Muslims dedicated to the destruction of Israel, America, the West and Jews. A progressive society is a murderous society with blood on its hands, firing the rifles of Marxist and Islamist antisemitism and antizionism. A progressive society is a war against the West, a war against individual rights and equal protection under the law, a war parading racism, sexism and discrimination against white males under the banners of diversity, inclusion and a special, higher, mystical form of fairness transcending ordinary, natural forms of fairness focusing on individuals, a form of unfairness called equity. A progressive society is an incubator of Marxist, Islamist, black racist violence and an incitement to mass murder. A progressive university is a school of mental illness, the divinity of the devil, and Marxist and Islamist hate propaganda. A progressive society is an embassy run by an ambassador representing an alien nation in the underworld of human existence, a nation establishing fear and control in the name of Marxism and Islam. A progressive society is a war against rational social order, a war against the Western Enlightenment, a war waged by Marxists and Islamists, leaving a trail of bombings and murders reaching around the world: "On Friday's broadcast of NewsNation's Cuomo, Harvard Law Professor Emeritus Alan Dershowitz stated that Harvard and other schools are to blame for the killing of two Israeli Embassy staffers in Washington, DC on Wednesday, not just because they tolerated antisemitism, 'but they actually taught antisemitism' through things like intersectionality and DEI. Dershowitz said, '[T]hese two kids that were killed in Washington DC, Harvard and other universities have blood on their hands. They not only tolerated the kind of incitement and antisemitism that would lead a murderer like the murderer who operated in DC, but they actually taught antisemitism. It was part of their curriculum. Intersectionality of race matters curriculum, DEI are incubators for antisemitism, antizionism, and the kind of violence we saw.' Dershowitz further stated that history from the Vietnam War, where violent protests eventually turned into bombings and murder, was a warning that the violent protests on campuses would eventually turn into murder like they did. He also specifically cited Harvard's Public Health and Divinity schools as areas of 'propagandistic' research." (Dershowitz: Harvard, Other Schools 'Have Blood On Their Hands', Taught Antisemitism Through DEI, Intersectionality by Ian Hanchett). November 28, 1941. Berlin, Germany. The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Hajj Amin Al Husayn, Arab nationalist and Muslim leader, meets Adolf Hitler at the Reich Chancellery. Hitler states to the Grand Mufti: "The struggle against a Jewish homeland in Palestine is a part of the general struggle against Jews, and will continue until the complete destruction of the Jewish European world empire is achieved. When the German army is near the Arab world, it will give an assurance to the Arabs that their liberation from the British is at hand. The goal at this time will be the annihilation of Jewry living in Arab space under the protection of British power." Eighty years after the formation of a national socialist-Islamist axis against the Enlightenment and its Jewish supporters, Islam has acquired a new partner in its struggle. In the twenty first century, a Marxist gender, race and class Medusa has partnered with today's Grand Muftis and lowered the curtain on civilization.

JAPAN'S NUMBER ONE IMPORT: MARXISM

After its defeat in World War II, Japan was content to take foreign inventions--the transistor, the laser, the videotape player--and convert them into products that it could market around the world. Japan acquired much of its base of Western technology, most of it American, perfectly legally through licensing, careful study of scientific papers and patents, and imitation. But when the US wasn't willing to share, some Japanese companies simply copied with little regard for patents and other intellectual property rights that the courts have only recently begun to define in many areas of high technology. The US, confident of its technical superiority, 'old out to the Japanese,' says G. Steven Burrill, head of the high technology consulting group at Arthur Young, a Big Eight accounting firm. 'We let them share our brain.' " (How Japan Picks America's Brains. Much Of Its Economic Success Has Been Built On Bought, Borrowed Or Stolen Technology. Now US Companies Are Striking Back--But A Two Way Street Is Still Far Off by Joel Dreyfuss and Carrie Gottlieb). The transistor, laser, videotape player, patents, intellectual property. Unable to create high technology because devoid of the scientific spirit exalted in the West, Japan for decades appropriated ideas and inventions originating in the West and scaled heights of technical and economic success. From the ashes of defeat after World War II, Japan rose like a phoenix on the wings of Western scientific and technological achievements, and went on to become a global economic superpower. High technology is not the only thing Japan has appropriated from the West. In the twenty first century, it has appropriated something dark and evil which has destroyed its capacity for scientific advancement. In the twenty first century, Japan has been consumed by a cancer sweeping across the West. Multiplying in the moral sewers of society, this is the cancer of far left ideas, and among its excrescences are affirmative action policies which reject liberal values and discriminate on the basis of group identity. Affirmative action policies are offshoots and derivatives of Marxism; they represent the second stage of Marxism, obeying the terrifying logic of Marxist tribalism; and in the twentieth century, they were brought into being by a Marxist Medusa called gender, race and class politics, and institutionalized policies of discrimination on the basis of race, sex and other group characteristics. In the twenty first century, Japan has renounced the principle of nondiscrimination and meritocratic selection which had made it a scientific, technological, engineering and medical superpower, and descended into a Marxist jungle of tribal politics. In the twenty first century, Japan has issued a manifesto of Marxism, composed in the West, and boarded a train of social regression, driven by the West, a train heading into civilizational collapse. Listen to the manifesto and hear the twenty first century Westernization of Japan, which unlike the first Westernization brought by stealing Western technology, has brought intellectual destruction in its wake. The new Japanese manifesto proclaims that a progressive society establishes selection procedures discriminating against men, and calls its sexism the achievement of diversity, inclusion, and a special, higher, mystical form of fairness, a form transcending ordinary, natural forms of fairness focusing on individuals, a form of fairness focusing on groups and not individuals, a form of fairness which is in fact unfairness, and goes by the name of equity. A progressive society establishes university admissions quotas in STEM programs for women. A progressive society admits women to STEM programs who have taken easier examinations than men or have been excused from taking examinations. A progressive society discriminates in favor of women applicants to STEM programs in order to establish proportional representation. A progressive society practices illegal sex discrimination favoring women. A progressive society adopts twenty first century Western policies of discrimination on the basis of sex and excludes males from STEM programs. A progressive society establishes university preferences, scholarships, preparatory programs and bonus points for women. A progressive society establishes ideologically based STEM admissions policies discriminating against men. A progressive society violates human rights laws and excludes men from STEM schools. A progressive society replaces gender blind merit quotas with admissions quotas for women in STEM schools in the name of upholding international standards and achieving social justice: "Amid growing global skepticism toward diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI), Japanese universities are rapidly embracing surprisingly radical DEI measures. In Japan's university admissions, admission quotas for females (Joshi-waku, literally Girls' Quotas) grant eligibility exclusively to women and are being introduced successively in highly competitive STEM programs. Both national and private institutions employ this scheme. Typically, applicants under female admission quotas face either a less rigorous written examination than the regular track or no written test at all. The rationales vary: Japan's exceptionally low percentage of women in STEM among Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) members, mounting global pressure on universities to promote DEI, Japan's low ranking in the Global Gender Gap Index, and the oft repeated maxim that 'diversity matters.' The phrase 'let's follow the world's lead' has become a stock slogan to justify these radical measures. Because Japan is ethnically homogeneous compared with the United States and EU member states, DEI targets are effectively limited to women. Although women's higher-education enrollment rate already exceeds that of men, only 'women in STEM' receive relief through the extreme measure of quotas. Other significant barriers—such as those faced by students from rural areas or low income backgrounds—are largely ignored except for a handful of special scholarships; they are never addressed through such drastic devices as quotas. (Faculties that train physicians or teachers do maintain 'regional quotas,' which require graduates to serve for a fixed period in designated areas to alleviate local shortages. These do not constitute affirmative action). University admissions are a zero sum game. If affirmative action is to be adopted, diverse disadvantages should be weighted appropriately, yet such efforts are entirely absent. Japan's affirmative action policies have long trailed American and European precedents. Universities often cite 'international standards' when adopting admission quotas for females. Yet, to the best of my knowledge, quotas of this kind in university admissions are illegal sex discrimination in advanced economies such as the United States and the EU. Even before the 2023

SFFA v. Harvard decision, both the 1978 UC v. Bakke ruling and Title IX of 1972 made admission quotas for females unlawful. By 2000, the EU had established that sex based quotas constituted illegal discrimination. (One private university in France still operates an admission quota for females, but this is a legacy exception stemming from its origins as a women's college.) Proponents of admission quotas for females never mention these facts, repeatedly insisting that 'affirmative action is common at universities worldwide.' Indeed, some jurisdictions in the West allow milder forms—tie break preferences, bonus points, special scholarships, or preparatory programs—but the extreme measure of quotas in admissions remains illegal discrimination throughout advanced Western nations. While advocates invoke comparisons with the West to justify their objectives, they simultaneously employ methods that diverge sharply from Western human rights norms. The result is an ideologically driven double standard that is indefensible academically. Unfortunately, Japanese scholars critical of admission quotas for females are exceedingly few. In US academia, conservative skepticism toward DEI has reportedly been underestimated for years. If ideology based discrimination continues to be institutionalized, the academic damage will become impossible to ignore, and the future of the academy will be in jeopardy. The unprecedented practice of cherry picking, distorting, or fabricating Western examples to justify overt discrimination is historically unparalleled. Our hope lies in the backlash from high school students themselves. A 2024 survey by the major prep school group Kawai Juku shows that nearly 45 percent of students oppose admission quotas for females, up from about 35 percent—a ten point jump in a single year that reflects mounting resistance to rapidly expanding quotas. Among the male students who are the victims of this discrimination, the opposition rate would certainly be much higher. When the Civil Aviation College, Japan's premier pilot training institution, announced that roughly 20 percent of its seats would go to women without the usual written examinations, the story was picked up by mainstream media and ignited nationwide debate." (Japanese Universities Are Importing DEI, Female Quotas In STEM by Yuto Kunitake). The Japanese manifesto of affirmative action proclaims that a progressive society establishes special admissions quotas for women in STEM programs, and admits unqualified women, in the name of increasing women's participation. A progressive society discriminates against men who apply for STEM programs in the name of diversifying higher education: "More Japanese universities are introducing special admission quotas for female applicants in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) related academic programs in a bid to reverse the country's abysmal record on women's participation in science. The increase comes in the wake of a 2022 government directive to promote diversification of admissions.'The quota system targeting higher women's enrollment in science is linked to efforts to diversify higher education in Japan by encouraging applications from diverse backgrounds,' said Shigeaki Katayanagi, an official at the ministry's higher education bureau." (More Universities Set Admission Quotas For Women In STEM by Suvendrini Kakuchi). Fiber optics cables: invented by Corning Glass and stolen by Sumitomo. Automatic focusing technology for cameras: invented by Honeywell and stolen by Minolta. Software which controls mainframe computers: invented by IBM and stolen by Fujitsu. The list of Western inventions stolen by the Japanese through licensing, borrowing, imitation and the study of Western scientific papers is as endless as it is brazen. The twenty first century has seen an addition to the list of Japanese cultural appropriations. Imitating Western Marxism, studying Western Marxism, borrowing from Western Marxism, and granted a franchise and license by Western Marxism, Japan has brought tribal politics to its shores and inaugurated a feminist, sexist new frontier.

MARXIST MURDER IN THE NAME OF GEORGE FLOYD

A pretext is an excuse to do something illegal and immoral. Pretexts conceal the true purposes behind actions and are widely used in rabble rousing political speeches. In the law, a pretextual arrest by law enforcement officers is one carried out for the purpose of conducting an illegal search and seizure. On May 25, 2025, in Minneapolis, Minnesota, a black man named George Floyd was murdered by a white police officer named Derek Chauvin, during an arrest Chauvin had made triggered by Floyd's passing a twenty dollar counterfeit bill. While Floyd lay handcuffed on the ground, Chauvin kneeled on his neck for nine minutes and asphyxiated him. Immediately after the murder, the number one religious and political movement in the West manufactured a pretext for the commission of mass violence and destruction. Galvanizing the moral sewers of society like no other movement in modern times, exciting the mobs to plunge into depths of psychopathic violence, this movement is known as Marxism. It is the religion of the Western establishment, voted into power in one hundred years of elections bringing victories to its redshirts, brownshirts, greenshirts and blackshirts, and on May 26, 2020, it shifted into high gear. On this fateful day, its propaganda department seized on the murder of Floyd and used it as a pretext for commencing a nationwide reign of destruction, causing 19 deaths and two billion dollars in property damage, the greatest damage from civil disorder in American history, and resulting in 17,000 arrests. Floyd's dying words, "I can't breathe," would serve as a rallying cry for Marxists to satisfy their propensities for violence and destroy people, places and property throughout America and the world. On this day, a Marxist black power movement called Black Lives Matter, founded in 2013 to overthrow liberal democracy in the name of combating racial discrimination and police brutality against blacks, led 30 million people across the nation on a rampage of rioting and plundering, the largest rampage in the nation's history. It led a global movement involving 2000 cities in 60 nations to riot and plunder. Black Lives Matter: a hashtag, a slogan, a movement and an action committee devoted to the destruction of Enlightenment traditions and institutions, and the establishment of a black Marxist totalitarian tyranny. Black Lives Matter: led a worldwide campaign to remove monuments and memorials to the leading figures of Western liberal capitalism, colonialism and the Enlightenment, such as Christopher Columbus, Thomas Jefferson, Cecil Rhodes and Winston Churchill. Black Lives Matter: led coast to coast riots, burned America to the ground and made it the most dangerous place on earth. Black Lives Matter: supported by the Western establishment which refused to deploy the forces of the law and halt its criminal acts. Black Lives Matter: supported by the Western establishment which sent clouds of acrid smoke from BLM's arson attacks billowing into people's families, homes and offices. Black Lives Matter: promoted mass murder and property destruction in the name of achieving racial diversity and inclusion. Black Lives Matter: promoted it in the name of protecting the right of illegal aliens to settle in the nation and receive free food, free housing, free health care and free college education. Black Lives Matter: proclaimed that America should dissolve its borders, repeal its laws, abolish its National Guard, and become a sanctuary state for the Muslim, Mexican, South American and black Marxist enemies of freedom: "Every American must know that Minnesota Governor Tim Walz (D) owns Minnesota burning to the ground during the George Floyd/Black Lives Matter riots, Republican National Committee (RNC) Chair Michael Whatley said during an appearance on Breitbart News Daily. 'The number one image that I think needs to be burned literally into every American's mind is Minnesota rioting and Minnesota burning to the ground for four days while he refused to call in the National Guard,' Whatley said of Walz, Vice President Kamala Harris's running mate. This happened despite the fact, he said, that President Trump called him and offered to send the National Guard, calling out Walz's wife for bragging about opening a window to essentially enjoy the smell of rioters destroying the state. 'The fact that his wife brags about opening the window so she can enjoy the smell of Minnesota burning and his daughter was out there protesting with them,' he said. Indeed, host Mike Slater shared a clip of Walz's wife in her own words. 'I would say those first days you know, when there were riots, I could smell the burning tires. And that was—that was a very real thing, and I kept the windows open for as long as I could because I felt like that was such a touchstone of what was—what was happening,' she stated. Further, Whatley said that Walz was 'defending the rioters and saying that it was based on a lack of inclusion and equity in Minnesota.' 'The fact that that city burned like it did that he sat aside and refused to call in the National Guard to quell those riots. The fact that he says Minnesota is going to be a sanctuary state, the first one in the country, that he would invest in a ladder company to help people climb over the wall. That he's giving illegal immigrants health care, free college education, and you know, is doing everything he can to try and bring that border up to Minnesota places every Minnesotan at risk,' he said, describing Walz as 'truly dangerous' to not only his state but to the entire country." (RNC Chair Michael Whatley: Tim Walz Owns 'Minnesota Burning To The Ground' by Hannah Knudsen). Black Lives Matter: rioted through neighborhoods and burned down high schools. Black Lives Matter: drenched people and places in the gasoline of hatred of liberal society and set fire to them. Black Lives Matter: blasted the black smoke of black power revolution across streets and squares. Black Lives Matter: led a coalition of black Marxists, Muslim Marxists and Mexican Marxists in a campaign to commit arson, smash borders, and engulf the nation in violence: "A federal court in Minnesota sentenced a man to five years of probation after he attempted to burn down a high school during a BLM riot. The incident took place during the riots that followed the death of George Floyd in 2020. US District Court Judge David S. Doty, a Reagan appointee, ordered 20 year old Mohamed Hussein Abdi to pay $34,000 in restitution to Gordon Parks High School in St Paul, Minnesota, and spend five years on probation after he attempted to set fire to the school, Fox News reported. The sentencing followed a guilty plea by the defendant to charges of conspiracy to commit arson. Police arrested Abdi in June 2020 after he entered the high school through a broken glass door, the Fox News report revealed. The incident took place in May of that year during a Black Lives Matter riot. Video evidence showed Abdi entering the school and pouring liquid from a white container onto the floor and a trashcan. He then took a 'liquid soaked garment' and set fire to the trash can. As the fire ignited and began to spread, he could be seen running from the scene, TwinCities.com reported. Flames and black smoke quickly spread. The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives, the FBI, the Minnesota State Fire Marshal Division, and the St Paul Police Department investigated the May school burning. One month after the incident, officials arrested Abdi. Police arrested a Rochester, Minnesota, couple in Mexico in February after the investigation also linked them to the Parks High School fire. The fire that stemmed from the Black Lives Matter riot that followed the George Floyd murder is named after the famed black fashion photographer, the local news outlet reported. Mexican police officials detained Jose Felan, 34, and Mena Yousif, 22 on suspicion of immigration charges. The article states that Felan faces three counts of arson while Yousif is charged with being an accessory after the fact." (BLM Protester Gets Probation For Attempted Arson Of Minnesota School by Bob Price). Marxist Parties: justified arson and violence in the name of popular revolution. Marxist Parties: justified them in the name of opening up new worlds of understanding. Marxist Parties: justified them in the name of giving power back to the people. Marxist Parties: justified them in the name of advancing international human rights. Marxist Parties: justified them in the name of fighting white supremacy. Marxist Parties: justified them in the name of protecting future generations. Marxist Parties: led a campaign to agitate and incite the malcontents in the sewers and burn down homes, schools, offices, neighorhooods, police cars, police precincts and Western civilization: "Why Minneapolis? The cops started it, I replied. They killed George Floyd and took every opportunity to escalate, agitate and make things worse. The cops are rioting and the people are responding. Like it or not, setting the Third Precinct on fire was a genuine revolutionary moment. An act of pure righteousness to open new worlds of understanding. The people declared themselves ungovernable and unilaterally took their power back. The largest international human rights movement in modern history had begun. The youth of Minneapolis carried all of this. The cops started it. It is important to maintain this basic perspective while we live through the consequences. Things will continue to play out in understandable ways. The call from the streets was genuine liberation, truly and finally. The work continues until that day comes. The enemies of this agenda, the powers that hold up white supremacy, are organized. They will no longer tolerate the great embarrassment of having lost control. They want the people to forget what it felt like to seize their power back. Recognize the patterns. Keep focus. Eyes on the prize. Remember the demand of the streets. The blood and treasure spent. This is our job. Minneapolis must answer the call. For real this time. For real for real. Do it for the kids." (The Cops Started It by Devin Hogan). May 25, 2025. The fifth anniversary of the murder of the George Floyd. The fifth anniversary of the start of Black Lives Summer. The fifth anniversary of Marxist protests, riots, resistance, and calls to defund the police, dissolve the borders and dismantle civilization. Shouting You changed the world, George, No one can silence us anymore and The people have spoken, Marxist flames which first swept across the world five years ago are still raging. The area of Minneapolis where George Floyd was murdered has been named George Floyd Square. It is in fact Karl Marx Square, an epicenter of world revolution.

AMERICA DECLARES BANKRUPTCY

Although the development of international capital markets was quite limited prior to 1800, we nevertheless catalog the various defaults of France, Portugal, Prussia, Spain and the early Italian city states. At the edge of Europe, Egypt, Russia, and Turkey have histories of chronic default as well. (This Time Is Different: Eight Centuries of Financial Folly by Carmen Reinhart and Kenneth Rogoff). Bond default. National bankruptcy. Sovereign debt crisis. Between 1557 and 1596, Philip II of Spain declared four national bankruptcies. In 1917, the new communist regime in Russia defaulted on the debts of Russian Empire. In 1999-2002, Argentina defaulted on its bond debts. In 2015, Greece defaulted on a 1.7 billion dollar payment to the International Monetary Fund. In the twenty first century, something unthinkable has happened. In the twenty first century, the arsenal and lighthouse of the free world has plunged into the icy waters of sovereign default and become bankrupt. In the twenty first century, in a dramatic illustration of just how sick the West has become and just how far the cancer of far left ideas has advanced, the United States of America, the leader of the Western world, is no longer able to pay its bond debts due to uncontrolled welfare spending, and has joined the ranks of failed states. In the twenty first century, America has descended into a state of financial bankruptcy caused by a moral bankruptcy symptomized by one hundred years of welfare spending, and has reached the end of its line. In the twenty first century, socialism has taken its financial toll on America and the nation is out of money. Bankruptcy. Look at America one hundred years after the creation of the welfare state under the New Deal, and see a zero government credit rating matched by infinite government deficits. See uncontrolled federal welfare spending. See the federal government pay higher interest rates to bond investors to compensate for the higher risk of default, a risk signaled by credit downgrades. See the federal government refuse to bring down deficits through significant reductions in welfare spending. See the nation's policymaking and political institutions focused on one goal and one goal alone: increasing the American welfare state. See a nation unwilling to stabilize itself fiscally because enchained to mob demands to maintain and expand welfare. See endlessly rising welfare debts and the replacement of good governance by socialist governance. See the worst fiscal condition of any nation in the West caused by reckless, irresponsible welfare spending. See a nation spend beyond its means in support of vast swathes of subhumanity, and see a nation no longer morally or fiscally sustainable: "On May 16, Moody's Ratings downgraded the US credit rating, citing an inability of the nation to address large and growing deficits. This downgrade means that for the first time ever, all three major credit ratings agencies have downgraded US credit below their top rating. Moody’s warning comes as lawmakers are considering budget reconciliation legislation that would make America’s fiscal situation significantly worse. The new report from Moody’s downgrades the US credit rating from the top level of Aaa (negative) to Aa1 (stable). In its announcement, Moody’s stated the following primary reasons for doing so. Growing debt caused by increased federal spending and reduced revenues from tax cuts. Moody's includes the assumption that extension of the 2017 TCJA provisions will add $4 trillion to the debt over the next decade. Growing federal interest payments, driven by rising interest rates. The cost of financing the US debt has increased rapidly, driven by higher Treasury yields since 2021. In particular, Moody's continues to warn that 'successive US administrations and Congress have failed to agree on measures to reverse the trend of large annual fiscal deficits and growing interest costs. In turn, persistent, large fiscal deficits will drive the government's debt and interest burden higher. The US' fiscal performance is likely to deteriorate relative to its own past and compared to other highly rated sovereigns.' The two other major credit rating agencies, Standard & Poor's (S&P) and Fitch Ratings, have both already downgraded the nation's rating—S&P in 2011 and Fitch in August 2023. S&P and Fitch Ratings also recognize the risk presented by growing debt and political division for the US outlook. When S and P lowered the sovereign credit rating for the United States more than a decade ago, it noted weakening 'effectiveness, stability, and predictability of American policymaking and political institutions' as well as an insufficient fiscal stabilization plan for the medium term. The 2023 downgrade from Fitch Ratings cited the nation's high and rising debt, the lack of a plan to address the drivers of that debt, and the erosion of good governance. Sovereign credit ratings assess the capacity and willingness that a borrower will default on its debt obligations. Now, all three major rating agencies have lowered their ratings for US debt, reflecting deep concern about the United States' growing debt and deficits. These serious and credible warnings should send a strong message to policymakers about the need to address America unsustainable fiscal path." (Moody's Downgrade of U.S. Credit Rating Highlights Risks of Rising National Debt, Peter G. Peterson Foundation, May 19, 2025). Bankruptcy. Look at America in the twenty first century and see the federal government refuse to halt welfare spending deficits. See welfare debt payments consume the federal budget. See the debt clock strike midnight and chime out the end of America's credit line. See a nation descended into superhigh risk status for borrowing. See a credit downgrade into ignominy brought about by endless welfare spending. See the federal government incur stratospheric borrowing costs as the wages of its welfare spending sins. See investors refuse to buy US bonds due to concerns with welfare debt default. See bond investors demand high interest rates for US bonds to compensate for superhigh risks of default. See the onset of a welfare debt crisis caused by the refusal of the federal government to take radical action and reduce welfare spending. See the federal government refuse to meet its welfare debt obligation and become a rogue government in the manner of Greece, Argentina and Soviet Russia. See the federal government's debt default decimate financial portfolios throughout the world and bring down the global economy. See US bonds descend into triple negative unreliability due to the insatiable leviathan called the welfare state. See the federal government miss interest payments on its bonds and miss the train of fiscal health and responsible, nonwelfare government. See a sound US economy transformed into a terminal welfare economy. See bond investors flee from the US economy, flee from the US dollar, and flee from a morally and fiscally bankrupt nation as they flee from a virulent plague: "On Friday, May 16th, the international credit rating institute Moody's downgraded the US government from Aaa to Aa+. They gave two main reasons: 1. Congress is doing nothing to stop the deficits, which are now averaging 25% of the federal government's annual spending. 2. At $1.2 trillion per year, interest payments on the government debt are now the second largest item in the federal budget. The downgrade is a serious signal to US lawmakers and to President Trump that time is running out on America's cheap credit line. The credit downgrade was small on a scale that runs from Aaa (virtually risk free credit) down to C (as bad as it gets), but for the US government, it is a big loss. Inevitably, a lower credit score means higher borrowing costs. The $36 trillion US government debt is going to cost taxpayers even more in interest payments. Investors will balk at buying US Treasury securities unless they get some risk premium in return. All this points in one scary direction: a debt crisis. Although Moody's does not give a timeline in its report, they hint rather boldly that the American economy will face a debt crisis in the near future. I agree with that assessment: unless Congress takes drastic action very soon, I predict that the US economy will be hit by a debt crisis before President Trump leaves office. This means, bluntly, that without urgent response from Congress, we are two years, three at the most, away from a Greek style event in the U.S. Economy. In Greece, the crisis exploded in 2009 when the government's creditors lost faith in the ability of the Greek Treasury to meet its debt obligations. While interest rates soared past 20 percent, the EU and the European Central Bank, ECB, took help from the International Monetary Fund, IMF, to prop up the ailing Greek government with fresh loans. In return, the three organizations demanded harsh budget cuts and crippling tax increases. The end result for Greece was devastating. The only silver lining with the Greek crisis was that its ramifications for the global economy, or even the European economy, were limited. A debt crisis in the United States would in all likelihood not stay contained in the same way, simply because of the globally dominant size of the US economy. One of the immediate consequences for Europe of an American debt crisis would be a drastic upheaval of investment portfolio management. European investors love American Treasury securities because they are virtually risk free. In fact, the market for US government debt has for decades served as a risk free foundation for investors from all over the world. So far, the United States Treasury has never missed an interest payment, which puts US sovereign debt in the highest class of financial reliability. When European investors have to look elsewhere for assets with very low risk, they will pull their money out of the US economy." (Trump Must Take US Credit Downgrade Seriously by Sven Larson). On the Bank of America Tower on Sixth Avenue in New York City, between 42nd and 43rd Streets, is the National Debt Clock. In 2025, the clocks reads 37 trillion dollars. The debt is due to federal welfare spending, totaling 3.2 trillion dollars, more than three times federal military spending. The debt is due to degenerate, Roman style, mob politics. The debt is due to the rampaging Marxist monster called majority rule. In the twenty first century, America is morally and fiscally bankrupt.

LIGHTS OUT IN GERMANY

India, July 30, 2012. The largest power blackout in history occurs, affecting 620 million people, or nine percent of the world's population and half of India's population at the time. The nation is shut down as airports, hospitals, passenger trains, commuter trains and traffic signals go dark, and people are unable to draw water from wells. For fifteen hours, chaos and convulsion engulf the most populous nation in the world. A little over a decade after disaster struck India, a blackout has struck the heart of Europe. It has struck a nation whose scientists, engineers and inventors gave the world light. It has struck a nation whose power technology supplied the grid for modern industrial civilization. It has struck a nation whose gallery of Nobel laureates made the wheels of human progress accelerate and spin round, travel to the distant corners of the world and liberate savage lands. A little over a decade after an accident disabled India's power generation, a blackout, caused not by an accident but by design and by politics, has struck Germany, and plunged the nation into darkness. In the twenty first century, Germany has fallen under the control of a radical environmentalist and anticivilizational movement and commenced a race back to the year zero. In the twenty first century, the Marxist majority in control of the nation, in a dramatic illustration of just how sick the West has become, and just how far the cancer of far left ideas has advanced across society, has voted to shut down nuclear energy, to shut down the energy source which Germany invented in the 1930s, and bring down a nationwide blackout. In the twenty first century, the streets and cities in Germany have become cold, dark and empty, extinguished by a populace charged with Marxist electricity sending forth currents of hatred toward the Enlightenment. In the twenty first century, Germany has issued a manifesto of radical, antinuclear, green party politics which has made it the shame of the West. Blackout. The new manifesto proclaims that a progressive society denies scientific and economic facts and condemns nuclear energy as expensive, dangerous and unnecessary. A progressive society denies the dismal record of renewable energy sources, such as solar panels and windmills, a record of constant blackouts and record high electricity prices, and prohibits nuclear energy. A progressive society is a dogmatic, ideologically pure society which prohibits nuclear energy on principle in its war against civilization. A progressive society is an antinuclear society which relies on Russian gas and other foreign energy imports for large scale energy generation. A progressive society denies empirical findings and is governed by antinuclear ideological legends. A progressive society has phased out nuclear energy, phased out industrial and technological civilization, and phased out the legacies of the Enlightenment. A progressive society denies the facts that nuclear energy is stable, secure, low emission and superefficient energy. A progressive society rejects every manifestation of advanced civilization; it rejects nuclear fission, nuclear fusion and nuclear reactors; and it seeks to revert human organization to the primordial plains. A progressive society rejects nuclear energy and has made a green transition into prehistorical jungles. A progressive society is radical on energy and radical on civilization, and seeks the destruction of both in the name of protecting the environment. A progressive society rejects reason, science and empirical argumentation, denies the facts that renewable energy sources, such as solar panels and windmills, produce nationwide blackouts, exploding energy bills and a loss of industrial competitiveness, and has blocked the path to human flourishing with a rabid, antinuclear green agenda: "What's happening in Germany with the nuclear energy debate should come as no surprise. Friedrich Merz, CDU leader and now chancellor, is paying the price for his own political choices: instead of seeking common ground with the AfD on fundamental issues like energy and migration, he opted for a dysfunctional coalition with the Social Democrats and the Greens. The result is an ideological paralysis that suffocates any sensible energy policy before it can even be debated. Economy Minister Katharina Reiche (CDU) tried to inject some pragmatism into the discussion by proposing that nuclear energy be classified as a sustainable technology under the EU's green taxonomy. It was a modest yet necessary step to open investment channels and reconsider Germany's nuclear exit—an exit that left the country with an unstable, overpriced energy system increasingly dependent on foreign imports, a reality made all the more evident after the NordStream sabotage. The backlash came swiftly—and, as expected, from the left. Environmental Minister Carsten Schneider (SPD) dismissed Reiche's initiative as merely a 'personal opinion' and regurgitated the usual cliches from the dusty drawer of dogmatic environmentalism: nuclear is too expensive, too dangerous, and unnecessary thanks to renewables. He conveniently ignored recent blackouts and record high electricity prices. As in so many other areas, the governing coalition prefers clinging to ideological narratives rather than facing hard facts. While Germany ties itself in knots over ideological purity, other European countries are waking up. Belgium has just overturned its 2003 nuclear phase out law and is preparing to build new reactors. In Denmark where nuclear energy has been banned since 1985—the Social Democratic government of Mette Frederiksen is now open to reconsidering its potential. Her reasoning is crystal clear: 'It's better to have nuclear power in Europe than to rely on Russian gas.' Even France—the historic nuclear heavyweight—has welcomed the fact that Berlin is no longer blocking efforts to classify nuclear energy as a sustainable energy source at the EU level. The key word here is sustainable—what nuclear energy truly is: low emission, efficient, and capable of securing supply. Continuing to exclude it from climate policy frameworks is an insult to common sense, especially when CO2 has become the central scapegoat of the entire green agenda. Meanwhile across the Atlantic, President Donald Trump has signed executive orders to quadruple nuclear energy production by 2050. Merz is beginning to admit that phasing out nuclear power was a mistake. He has voiced support for investing in new technologies like small modular reactors and nuclear fusion. But his statements sound more like damage control than genuine leadership. During the electoral campaign, Merz fully embraced the 'green transition,' forgetting that it was precisely the radicalism on energy and migration that pushed millions of voters toward the AfD. As Hungarian Prime Minister Orban's adviser Balazs Orban pointed out, Germany has spent years dragging the rest of Europe along with its ideological approach to energy and migration, ignoring reasoned arguments and warnings from other nations. Now, as the consequences become undeniable—skyrocketing bills, blackouts, loss of competitiveness—Berlin wants to change course, but without breaking with those who are blocking the way. Is that even possible?" (Merz's Nuclear Dilemma: Trapped Between Common Sense And Green Allies by Javier Villamor). Blackout. In the twenty first century, Germany has proclaimed that a progressive society denies the facts that nuclear energy produces mass energy generation combined with zero carbon emissions and low costs. A progressive society has transitioned away from nuclear energy and transitioned into preindustrial sources of energy. A progressive society is a leftist run society whose Greens and Social Democrats have sacrificed industrial civilization on the altar of renewable energy sources. A progressive society has reversed five hundred years of industrial progress with sledgehmmars marked solar power, wind power, green sources, green projects and a green agenda: "A bombshell report has found that Germany could have been more effective at reducing its carbon footprint while saving hundreds of billions of euros if it had invested in nuclear power rather than green energy projects. Leftist run governments in Europe's top economic powerhouse made a devastating error by transitioning away from nuclear power and focusing instead on socalled renewable sources of energy like wind and solar, industrial engineer Jan Emblemsvag of the University of Science and Technology in Trondheim, Norway has said according to German daily Welt. While nuclear energy accounted for around 30 per cent of Germany's electricity in the year 2000, just over two decades later in 2022, the country, under the direction of the leftist Social Democrats (SPD) and the Greens, shut down its last nuclear power plant. Emblemsvag, based on calculations on outcomes of other nuclear powers, found that not only would have 'decarbonized more if it had invested in nuclear power plants' it also would have done so 'with significantly less nominal expenditure.' Although estimates vary on the cost of Berlin's green transition, according to the study, since 2002, Germany has spent 696 billion euros, including 310 billion in direct state subsidies, on renewables. This has coincided with a 25 per cent decline in carbon emissions, the Norwegian researcher found. However, if Germany had decided to stick with nuclear power during the same time, the country would have saved 600 billion euros while producing more emissions free power than all green sources combined. Additionally, if Germany had invested further in nuclear power in 2002, it could have seen emissions fall by around 73 per cent (nearly three times the current rate) while still saving 300 billion euros compared to the green agenda." (Green Fail: Germany's Anti Nuclear Policies Resulted In More Pollution, More Costs, Report Finds by Kurt Zindulka). Germans involved in the student and democracy movements of the 1960s organized demonstrations against nuclear power, some veering into violent confrontations with the police that were eventually so frequent they became normalized. At one of the biggest, in 1975, 28,000 protestors occupied the construction site of a nuclear power plant in Wyhl and ultimately blocked the project. But with the founding of the Green party in West Germany in 1980, antnuclear sentiment was given a singular vehicle for political influence. (The Source Of Germany's Nuclear Aversion, The Breakthrough Institute). Nuclear energy is among the preeminent symbols of modern industrial, technological civilization. It is among the preeminent symbols of the Enlightenment universe of reason, science and human achievement. It is among the crowning glories of life in the West. This is why Marxists hate it with a passion which knows no bounds. Fallen under the control of Marxism, Germany is host to the greatest antinuclear movement in the world. The abolition of nuclear energy means the abolition of modern technological and industrial civilization, and Germans advocate this in the name of democracy, environmentalism and green politics. Their mass demonstrations and violent confrontations in protest against nuclear energy, the Enlightenment and the West have shocked the conscience of civilized people.

COMMUNISTS AND FASCISTS BATTLE IN NEW THEATER OF WAR

August 2, 216 BC. The ancient village of Cannae in southeast Italy. Led by Hannibal, 50000 Carthaginians confront an army of 86000 Romans, led by Lucius Paullus and Gaius Varro. Hannibal surrounds the Romans, attacks them from two directions, and annihilates them, while suffering only 8000 casualties. Thus was born the pincer movement, the movement of encirclement of the enemy, and thus emerged from the Roman battlefield the greatest tactical feat in military history, the worst Roman defeat, and the reputation of Hannibal as the world's greatest military leader. One hundred and twenty years after the communist revolution in Russia and ninety years after the national socialist revolution in Germany, the ghosts from this nightmare past have reassembled and returned to battle each other again. In the twenty first century, the West is again a theater of war between two Marxist formations, and they have surrounded and converged upon the liberal institutions inherited from the Enlightenment, and annihilated them. Two thousand years after Hannibal defeated the Romans, and ninety years after a communist-fascist axis and pincer movement, led by Stalin and Hitler, began encircling Europe and annihilating its free societies, the axis power and the pincer movement have returned for a second engagement, and this time around, they have achieved victory. In the twenty first century, new faces are fighting old battles and annihilating their common liberal enemy. Lenin versus Mussolini, Stalin versus Hitler, the redshirts versus the brownshirts, hoodlums spreading violence in the name of class struggle versus hoodlums spreading violence in the name of racial struggle, two Marxist tribes, two socialist camps, class socialists and race socialists: they are back in business in a big way, each battling the other for the control of society, each fighting to bury civilization with their own bulldozers, back in business under new flags and with new faces. Look at the West today and see the final chapter of a story begun in the twentieth century, a story called The Abandonment Of Reason, a story written in Rome during its final centuries, a story of the triumph of religion of one stripe or another. Christianity, barbarism, mobocracy, caesarism, statism, welfarism, communism, nationalism, populism, fascism: the ascendancy of these doctrines is the symptom of a disease bringing about civilizational collapse. It is a mental disease of the masses afflicting them after a thousand years of civilizational flourishing. It is the disease of unreason. Look at the West in the twenty first century and see this disease move into high gear. See a struggle for power between two dominant movements which between them have reshaped the cultural and political establishment and destroyed liberal traditions and institutions. Theater of War. See the dominance of communist totalitarians, parading as progressives, and fascist totalitarians, parading as patriots. See the dominance of a woke agenda, condemning capitalism as a regime of discrimination against women, nonwhites and the poor, and a nationalist agenda, condemning capitalism as a regime of globalist destruction of national rights and identity. See the dominance of fascism, parading in the name of the conservative and patriotic right. See the dominance of fascism, parading as the bringer of a new golden age. See the dominance of fascism, parading as a doctrine of national sovereignty. See the dominance of Marxism and Soviet style rule, parading as the liberation of the working class. See the dominance of fascism, parading as a doctrine of fundamental rights. See the dominance of fascism, parading as a European conservative movement. See the dominance of fascism, parading as a movement of Patriots for Europe. See the dominance of fascism, parading in the name of the interests of Europeans. See the dominance of fascism, parading as the voice of the people. See a fascist Hungarian government battle a communist European Union. See popular fascists movements in France, Germany, Spain and Romania banned by the equally popular communist establishment in these nations. See the dominance of communism, parading as the Democrat Party and the Joe Biden Administration. See a communist virus battle a fascist virus, infective agents multiplying within a host crippled by moral decadence. See Marxist internationalists battle fascist antiglobalists. See the dominance of communists and fascists in the European Parliament, dominant among presidents, prime ministers and policy makers throughout the West, and dominant in the homes and offices of the man on the street: "Last Tuesday, the Madrid office of the Hungarian Center for Fundamental Rights presented the Spanish edition of the book Last Warning To The West: Hungary's Triumph Over Communism And The Woke Agenda by its author, Shea Bradley-Farrell, in an event organized in collaboration with the Patriots for Europe Foundation, concluding with a round table discussing the first 100 days of Donald Trump's second term in office. The director of the Center for Fundamental Rights, Miklos Szantho, opened the event with a concise speech on Hungary's struggle against progressive totalitarianism: 'We Hungarians have been protecting our country from progressive destruction for more than fifteen years. Hungary is not a failure of the Western system, but the proof that the real failure is the progressive system that dominates our civilization today.' For Szantho, Donald Trump's victory, like that of Giorgia Meloni in Italy and the election results of other parties of the conservative and patriotic right, is proof of a change in the world order. 'Let us continue to fight for a new golden age to come to Europe, the age of patriots,' he concluded. Shea Bradley-Farrell, PhD, president of the Counterpoint Institute for Policy, Research and Education, said that national identity is the key to understanding the Hungarian victory over communism and woke ideology, a virus which has its roots in Marxism. 'The example of the Hungarians proves that it is possible to defeat the woke virus by clinging to sovereignty and being proud of one's national identity.' This defeat of wokeism and of a behavior 'very similar to the practices of communism' by the Democratic Party has come to the United States at the hands of Donald Trump. Curiously, in many conversations she had with Hungarians while writing her book, they told her that 'the rhetoric of the Biden administration reminded them of the years of Soviet rule.' For Bradley-Farrell, 'Trump's victory is an opportunity not only for the United States, but also for Europe.' The event concluded with a debate on Trump's first 100 days, moderated by Ricardo Ruiz de la Serna, with Jorge Martín Frías, director of the Fundacion Disenso; VOX MEP, Mike Gonzalez, senior fellow at the Heritage Foundation; and Vajk Farkas, director of the Madrid office of the Center for Fundamental Rights. Jorge Martin Frias stressed the importance of Donald Trump's victory as proof that it is possible to win and govern 'by fighting the cultural battle.' For the MEP, it is clear that change will come to Europe, despite the establishment seeking to prevent it: 'We have seen it in Romania, we are seeing it with Marine Le Pen and the attempt to ban the AfD in Germany, and here in Spain with an economic sanction against VOX, which does not comply with the law and is based on political motivations that the only thing they are pursuing is to punish the ideas of VOX and what it represents.' Mike Gonzalez pointed out that he doesn't agree with all of Donald Trump's policies, 'just like I don't agree with everything my wife says, even though we've been together for many years.' But González emphasized the importance of the fight the Trump administration is waging against wokeism, calling the U.S. president's actions a 'defibrillator' in the face of the wokeist threat. Nevertheless, and despite Trump's forceful actions, Gonzalez warned that we must not let our guard down because 'the battle is not yet won.' Vajk Farkas criticized the hypocrisy of the Socialists and the European People's Party in the EU institutions, where the application of a cordon sanitaire against the Patriots for Europe has left the third largest political force without representation in the bodies of the European Parliament. Farkas also denounced what happened against the AfD in Germany and the electoral repetition in Romania, pointing out that though one may not agree with these parties in many aspects, the sovereignist forces must work together 'to represent the interests of Europeans.' After the event, I had the opportunity to speak with Miklos Szantho, whom I had previously interviewed for The European Conservative in Esztergom, Hungary. I asked him about the latest polls showing the opposition led by Peter Magyar tied with Fidesz: 'This is nothing new. In every election, the 'new' opposition leader receives massive media support and is declared the winner. It is true that in this case the polls are very close, but when push comes to shove, when Hungarians have to vote on who will be prime minister and lead the nation, it is Viktor Orban who wins the day.' " (Last Warning To The West: Hungary Proves Progressivism Is A Failure by Alvaro Penas). Theater of War. Look at the West in the twenty first century and see a dominant communist movement promote antisemitism and Antifa. See communists occupy buildings, block streets and set fire to squares. See black clad communist hoodlums with faces hidden attack the police. See communists rampage through free institutions and trespass, destroy property, organize criminal conspiracies and spread violence in the streets. See communists parade as Students United for Palestinian Equality and Return and demand corporate divestiture and boycotts of Israel because it is a free society, and seek the destruction of Israel, America, Europe, Jews and the West: "At least 30 antiIsrael protesters were arrested Monday after occupying an engineering building at the University of Washington in Seattle. The protesters, who are also being identified as Antifa, holed up in the building for several hours to demand the school divest from Boeing, Fox News reported Tuesday. Some of the protesters set dumpster fires and blocked streets nearby. Video footage shows the black clad group standing behind what appears to be a bike rack while holding up trash can shields. Campus police and local officers eventually contained the situation and arrested about 30 protesters who had locked themselves into the building. Their charges included trespassing, property destruction and disorderly conduct, and conspiracy. According to NBC News, some of the protesters are linked to a group called Students United for Palestinian Equality and Return which is against Boeing's defense contracts and arms sales to Israel." (Police Arrest 30 During Fiery Anti Israel Protest At University of Washington by Amy Furr). Carl von Clausewitz, seminal military theorist, recognized the supreme value of the pincer movement as a tactic of war. He saw this tactic produce encirclement, cut off escape routes, disrupt lines of communication and force a surrender. In the twenty first century, communists, fascists and their allies and supporters have surrounded the institutions of the Enlightenment. The voices of freedom are trapped and without means of escape or lines of communication. A wide ranging coalition of religionists, embracing black Marxists, feminist Marxists, gay Marxists, lesbian Marxists, transgender Marxists, environmentalist Marxists, Aryan Marxists, fascists, nationalists, populists, resurgent Christians, resurgent Muslims and resurgent Orthodox Jews, has moved in on the world of reason, and its miniscule supporters have been overwhelmed. In the twenty first century, the West has gone down the path of ancient Rome and collapsed.

AGITPROP AT MIT

William Barton Rogers was a nineteenth century American geologist and physicist. In response to the increasing industrialization of the nation, he created a school devoted to the dissemination of "useful knowledge." Opening its doors on April 10, 1861, it was a polytechnic school whose motto was mind and hand. Originally located in Boston, Massachusetts, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology moved to Cambridge in 1916 and has been there ever since. World famous for research in computer science, digital technology and artificial intelligence, and the creation of the Human Genome Project, MIT counts among its alumni and faculty 105 Nobel Laureates, 26 Turing Awards winners, and 8 Fields Medalists. In the twenty first century, this storied institution of scientific research and development has abandoned its mission, disgraced its motto, and fallen under the control of a sickness. This is the sickness of our time, contracted from the mental virus of unreason. It is the sickness of religion and it afflicts cultures after one thousand years of life. In the West in the twentieth century, as the culture began its descent into extinction, it appeared in its main form as Marxism, the greatest religion of the gutter in the history of mankind. In the twenty first century, the Marxist gutter has swelled into a rising tide of mental sickness which has submerged and carried away key institutions. In the twenty first century, the Marxist gutter has swept into MIT and rendered it unrecognizable. In the twenty first century, the university regularly placed among the top five universities in America, the university whose school of engineering is regularly rated number one in the nation, has been transformed into an agitation and propaganda tower blasting out a manifesto of Marxist revolution.

Listen to the new, twenty first century MIT statement of cultural subversion and hear the death knell toll of civilizational collapse. The new MIT. The new MIT proclaims that a progressive university is a campus rally and demonstration for Palestinians in Gaza. A progressive university advocates a global boycott of Israel because it is a free society and the only free society in the Middle East. A progressive university condemns Israel as a genocidal nation because it seeks to eradicate the manifold voices of violence and eradicate a million man terror army which is Gaza. A progressive university advocates the eradication of Israel, Jews and the capitalist system in the name of free Palestine. A progressive university condemns the Israeli military as a capitalist war machine and advocates its destruction. A progressive university is a graduate and undergraduate union devoted to the overthrow of the Israeli government. A progressive university subjects the supporters of Israel to round the clock threats, intimidation, violence and suppression. A progressive university is a campus wide, Israel hate megaphone drowning out normal university life, from curricular studies to commencement ceremonies. A progressive university is a high temperature, malarial swamp of Marxist black studies, women's studies, gay studies, lesbian studies, bisexual studies, transgender studies and Islamic studies. A progressive university is proHamas university whose Jew hate reverberates in every classroom, laboratory, seminar and dormitory. A progressive university is a Marxist-Islamic culture center spewing out Palestinian, Hamas and Islamic propaganda. A progressive university indoctrinates students in the doctrines of the faith, embracing antisemitism, anticapitalism and counterEnlightenment. A progressive university rejects reason, truth, science and empiricism, awards advanced degrees in political correctness, and is a stage, a hall and a mass of students and professors marching and rioting against liberal democratic order: "When you think of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, what's the first thing that comes to mind? For most of us, it's brainy nerds, visionaries, tech geniuses, rocket scientists, brain surgeons, innovators, startups, and throw in a robot or two. In reality, it looks more like run of the mill wokesters. Here's what they got at commencement, according to the Boston Globe: 'Megha Vemuri, MIT's graduating class president, on Thursday veered from her prepared marks and from the stage expressed support for besieged Palestinians in Gaza, called for MIT to cut ties with Israel, and criticized administrators at the institute, which she accused of being 'directly complicit in the ongoing genocide of the Palestinian people.' 'You have faced the obstacle of fear before and you turned it into fuel to stand up for what is right. You showed the world that MIT wants a free Palestine,' she said in the speech to her peers, citing votes in 2024 from MIT's undergraduate association and graduate student union that overwhelmingly backed resolutions calling for MIT to cut ties with the Israeli military. 'You faced threats, intimidation, and suppression coming from all directions, especially your own university officials, but you prevailed because the MIT community that I know would never tolerate a genocide.' On Friday, Nobles was visibly frustrated, as chants of 'Let Megha walk!' could be heard cutting into her speech.' What dreck. What drivel. Did this creature study? Because we know she knows nothing about Israel or Gaza or the Mideast, and we know she's very sure of herself in her ignorant spewings. So not surprisingly, the university, which is warily eyeing what is happening with Harvard and has a lot of federal research cash on the line, promptly took steps to ban her from the main commencement. They had little choice, given that this one was a sneaky type, presenting a speech that said one thing to the administrators, and then giving the full Israel hate--at a school that isn't famous for its Israel studies or foreign policy or anything but hard science and tech--to the graduating students, cheating them out of the day that was supposed to celebrate them. Yet the university's action has prompted a lot of yelling from at least a small cadre in the student body, raising questions as to whether they are really interested in science and tech, or just want to go fist waving with the womyn's studies gut majors in the fever swamps of the other elite universities. Most of us would have expected better. And of course, from now on, we raise one eyebrow as someone lays out that they have an MIT degree. Seems the standards have fallen in those parts. It calls to mind that this university was one of the ones named by Representative Elise Stefanik of New York in 2023 as she questioned presidents of fancy universities about their record on antisemitism. At least two of them saw heads roll, resignations following equivocal answers on Jew hate engulfing their campuses. Somehow, MIT got away with not firing their president, but it appears the indoctrination has done its work, what with the content of this educated idiot's proHamas spewings and her crazed willingness to ruin everyone's graduation with this Jew hating doggerel. The school should deny this clown her diploma, actually, and investigate whether anyone was paying her for the offensive, irrelevant, contemptuous speech. That may be too much to ask, but Trump has probably got this school on his radar as a result. It's going to take a lot more than just shutting down this bounder to figure out how she got into the school, and how they can prevent future bounders with little interest in science and tech from taking the podium at what should be students' proudest moment, their graduation." (MIT Embarrasses Itself With A Wokester Commencement Ceremony by Monica Showalter). The new MIT. The new MIT manifesto proclaims that a progressive university is an antiliberal, counterEnlightenment university which advocates genocide against Jews. A progressive university is a neonazi university whose hate targets are Jews and Israel. A progressive university enforces a special code of conduct which encourages speech advocating violence against whites, males, liberals and Jews, and prohibits speech advocating violence against Islamic terrorists, Marxist terrorists, and black clad hoodlums tearing up the campus in the name of gender, race and class ideologies. A progressive university is run by latter day Hitlers focused on the people the fuhrer hated, focused on Jews, zionists and the voices of the Enlightenment, and dedicated to their extermination. A progressive university is a mass murder university zeroing in on Israel, Jews, and Western, liberal, enlightenment civilization: "It’s been four days since the Eva Brauns of Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), and the University of Pennsylvania admitted that within the correct context, it is not against their school’s policy to call for the genocide of Jews. So far, after four days—four!—only President Liz Magill, the Eva Braun of the University of Pennsylvania, has resigned. She will, of course, remain a tenured faculty member. But President Claudine Gay and President Sally Kornbluth, the respective Eva Brauns of Harvard and MIT, are still presidents, still in charge. During congressional testimony Tuesday, all three of these neoNazis were asked a very simple, straightforward question by Representative Elise Stefanik (R-Awesome): 'Does calling for the genocide of Jews violate [your school’s] code of conduct?' And all three said the same thing: that it depends on the context—which tells you that within a certain context, it does not violate their respective university’s conduct policy to openly call for every Jew on the planet to be slaughtered. The background of these hearings matter cause at all three of these Ivy League schools, wild eyed protests have broken out where, in one obvious form or another, students have used campus grounds to call for the murder and extermination of Jews. It was only after their revealing testimony that all three Eva Brauns were forced to apologize. As someone who is a big believer in accepting apologies, I’m still calling for the genocide of their jobs. If you are in charge of a university and you have a policy where it is sometimes okay to call for violence or murder or genocide or extermination, you got to go." (The Eva Brauns Of Harvard And MIT Are Still In Charge by John Nolte). The new MIT. The true and only practicable object of a polytechnic school is, as I conceive, the teaching, not of the minute details and manipulations of the arts, which can be done only in the workshop, but the inculcation of those scientific principles which form the basis and explanation of them, and along with this, a full and methodical review of all their leading processes and operations in connection with physical laws. (Letter From William Barton Rogers To His Brother Henry, March 13, 1846, MIT Institute Archives). The founding mission of MIT was the teaching of scientific principles, laws, explanations, processes and operations, following in the footsteps of the Enlightenment. In the twenty first century, this American national treasure at the forefront of modern science and technology has been invaded by the Devil's religions. Its new Marxist, national socialist, counterEnlightenment curriculum has sprung from the pages of Mein Kampf and the Communist Manifesto.

BRITAIN REPEALS CIVILIZATION

It has the oldest human rights tradition of any nation in modern times. Its 1215 Magna Carta is a landmark in Western man's yearning for freedom. This royal charter of rights agreed to by King John of Runnymede is an anthem to the nation's Anglo-Saxon liberty. Among the foundational documents of modern civilization, and the first constitutional document in history, it makes a series of proclamations which inspired and uplifted oppressed people in every nation on earth. It proclaims that the king is required to gain parliament's consent before he imposes taxes. The king is required to respect the right to a free and fair trial, the right to a trial by "the the lawful judgment of one's peers and by the law of the land." The king "will not deny to any man either justice or right." The king will respect the free movement of people. The king will respect the right of habeas corpus, the right of an individual to challenge his imprisonment at any time, even after formal appeals have been exhausted. This Magna Carta was the voice of a nation called England for one thousand years. It was the voice of a nation which had the first publishing house of freedom in the world: Cambridge University Press. It was the voice of a nation which had the first newspaper of freedom in the world: The Daily Courant. It was the voice of a nation which for centuries had Speakers' Corners set aside in all its public parks, special areas in which free open speaking, debate and discussion were allowed and participants had no fear of state reprisals. It was the voice of a nation which was the birthplace of the author of the most famous anticommunist novel in history. George Orwell's 1984 describes a nightmare world of thought crimes, a world of crimes committed by those who think anticommunist thoughts the Ministry of Truth has prohibited, world of omnipresent communist mass surveillance, a world of communist creation and erasure of reality, a world echoing with midnight knocks on the door by the communist secret police. In the twenty first century, this England, after one thousand years of life dedicated in varying degrees to the cause of freedom, has renounced its heritage, institutions, meaning and character, and descended into a fever swamp filled by the most popular and influential gutter religion in history. In the twenty first century, this England of Magna Carta, the Petition of Right, the Bill of Rights, John Locke and Edward Coke, has succumbed to a malarial mob religion known as Marxism, and in an illustration of just how sick the West has become, and just how far the cancer of far left ideas has advanced, this England in the twenty first century has become morally and spiritually unrecognizable. Look at the nation whose tradition of human rights inspired the American and French Revolutions, and inspired the US Bill of Rights and the French Declaration of the Rights of Man and of the Citizen, and see the devastation wrought by mass cultural suicide. Britain Today. Look at Britain today and see the opponents of Islam placed behind bars. See the opponents of Muslim gangs, groomers and exploiters of children silenced in jail cells. See a nation declare war on free speech, free citizens and free journalists. See those exposing a society in the grip of an Eastern plague relentlessly attacked by the state. See legal proceedings weaponized to intimidate and obstruct the opponents of Islam. See proIslamic judges send the voices of dissent to jail. See courts of law politicized and transformed into courts of repression of politically incorrect ideas and opinions. See the state enforce Marxist and Muslim legends as the official religion. See activists for freedom locked up for life in dungeons. See those who write books, articles and social media posts opposing Islamic riots, violence and the stabbing of children prosecuted and placed on trial on charges of harassment, hate speech and spreading terror. See the opponents of Islam hauled before magistrates courts and Star Chambers and deprived of their constitutional rights: "English activist and citizen journalist Tommy Robinson was released from prison on Tuesday, but faces a potential return to incarceration after fresh criminal charges were levied against him this month. A dishevelled Tommy Robinson, sporting long hair, a beard, and a rosary around his neck, left HMP Woodhill in Milton Keynes on Tuesday after his 18 month sentence was reduced by the High Court last week. Per his social media activity, Robinson's first actions upon release was visiting his mother's home, eating a 'Full English' breakfast including a Black Pudding—a traditional British food made of pigs' blood, oats, and spices—and have a hair cut, his appearance having given all impression of having been denied the use of a razor in prison. The antigrooming gang activist was jailed last year for contempt of court for breaking an order to repeat claims about a Syrian man who had successfully sued Robinson for libel. As a part of his early release, Robinson agreed to take down the claims from his social media, including his documentary film Silenced. Speaking outside of the prison, Robinson said that 'unfortunately, in a country that doesn't believe in free speech, being a citizen journalist, this place is an occupational hazard.' 'It's ridiculous. 16 years ago, when I first started speaking out against Islamic rape gangs that were plaguing this country, from that point on, I have faced relentless attacks from the British state, wielding lawfare as a weapon in order to silence me. I have never been convicted by a jury, every one of my convictions have been handed down to me by judges.' However, Robinson expressed his thanks to Elon Musk for helping promote his cause and his film to a broader audience, saying: 'I have to say a thank you to Elon Musk, because without X, if we didn't have X, everyone would just think I lied. No one would have got any other narrative.' 'You've attempted to lock up the truth, but that truth has echoed throughout the entire globe.' Robinson claimed that his imprisonment was a part of a broader trend of lawfare in the political sphere, pointing to the prosecution of Geert Wilders in the Netherlands, Steve Bannon, President Donald Trump, and Marine Le Pen in France as other examples. 'Lawfare has been waged against anyone who has challenged the globalist narratives,' he said. The newfound freedom for the activist may be short lived as he is reportedly set to appear before the Westminster magistrates' court on June 5 facing accusations of harassment causing fear of violence in August of last year amid the Southport protests and riots which broke out across the UK after the mass stabbing at a children's dance party by second generation migrant Axel Rudakubana which left three young girls dead. Robinson also faces another trial next year over allegations that he refused to provide police with the PIN code for his phone last year after being stopped under Schedule 7 of the Terrorism Act 2000." (Tommy Robinson Released From Prison But Faces Fresh Charges That May Send Him Back by Kurt Zindulka). Britain Today. Look at Britain today and see a nation suffocated by severe speech restrictions. See a nation imprisoned in a state of extreme antiliberty. See broadcast regulators police politically incorrect online speech. See online speech critical of Islam suppressed in the name of public safety. See social media platforms censored to eliminate criticisms of Islam. See speech codes outlaw speech critical of Marxism, Islam, and gender, race and class politics. See free speech sent in retreat before the juggernaut of Marxist lockstep. See freedom of conscience placed behind Marxist barbed wire fences. See the freedom to challenge totalitarian tyranny placed in Marxist crosshairs. See people rot in jail over antiMarxist, antiMuslim, proliberal social media posts. See the police and courts condemn antiMarxist, antiMuslim speech as offensive and place a nation, its voices of constitutionalism, its tradition of human rights, and its one thousand year history of free speech, under arrest and jail them for life: "The Trump administration reportedly dispatched a team to meet with victims of Britain's draconian speech restrictions amid growing concerns over the state of liberty in the United Kingdom. The Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights and Labor (DHRL) team also met with UK Foreign Office officials and members of the Ofcom broadcasting regulator, which was recently empowered to police speech on the internet in Britain by the controversial Online Safety Act. The legislation has reportedly become a major bone of contention between Washington and London, given the potential for the British authority to impose hefty fines on American social media firms for failing to police content on their platforms. The Trump administration has publicly chastised Britain for its increasingly restrictive speech codes, and reports have claimed that the issue could become a sticking point during trade negotiations. Vice President JD Vance raised the issue of free speech in Europe during his landmark February speech at the Munich Security Conference, and singled out the UK as a chief offender. 'In Britain, and across Europe, free speech, I fear, is in retreat,' Vance warned, adding: 'I look to our very dear friends, the United Kingdom, where the backslide away from conscience rights has placed the basic liberties of religious Britons, in particular, in the crosshairs.' Trump allies have also recently raised the case of 42 year old English mother Lucy Connolly, who was sentenced to 31 months in prison over social media posts following the murder of three young girls at a Taylor Swift dance party in Southport by second generation migrant Axel Rudakubana. According to a report last month from The Times of London, British police arrest more than 30 people every day for supposedly offensive comments on the internet or other platforms, totaling around 12,000 arrests per year." (Trump Administration Sent Team To Investigate Free Speech Violations In Britain by Kurt Zindulka). Hadrian was the first to build a wall, 129 kilometers long, to separate the Romans from the barbarians. (Historia Augusta). Hadrian's Wall. A defensive fortification of Roman Britannia begun in 122 AD under Emperor Hadrian. Its purpose was to defend civilization against external invaders. In the twenty first century, Britain, "This fortress built by nature for herself/Against infection and the hand of war," This "moat defensive to a house,/Against the envy of less happier lands,/This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England," has been placed by popular demand under the control of enemies within. In the twenty first century, Britain's homegrown Marxists, inside the walls of civilization, have dissolved the nation's borders and let in their Muslim comrades in arms. They have let them spread and multiply without limit, and formed a Marxist-Muslim axis against freedom.

FREEDOM AND ITS ENEMIES

A fork is a kitchen utensil with a long handle and a head terminating in prongs. Invented during the Bronze Age 5000 years ago, the fork has multifarious uses at the table. A fork can spear food in order to hold it to cut with a knife, or it can lift food to eat, and there are dessert forks, dinner forks, serving forks and carving forks. In the twenty first century, a movement of destruction with two prongs is on a rampage. It is a devil's fork stalking free institutions and pouncing whenever it can. It was born from a sickness of the mind, a sickness which rejects reason in favor of religion, and has grown virulent and blazing hot. This movement is the number one gutter religion of our time, and its moral filth first began flowing in the twentieth century. Collecting criminals, conspirators, miscreants and malcontents from the streets, this gutter is known as Marxism, and it has two main branches, appealing to two different species of filth. One prong of this Marxist fork represents communism, class hatred and proletarian politics, while the other prong represents fascism, race hatred and national socialist politics. The first prong is marked with names such as Lenin, Stalin, Mao and Pol Pot, while the second prong is marked with names such as Hitler, Mussolini, Tojo and Franco. Each prong is marked with additional, related branches. The class prong also contains the names of pseudoanarchists, while the race prong also contains the names of black supremacists, feminist supremacists, gay activists, lesbian activists, transgender activists, green activists and Islamic activists. In the twenty first century, the mighty Marxist two prong fork has lifted up the dead body of liberal, Enlightenment civilization, fed it into the monster's maw of mobocracy, and ended the story of the West. In the twenty first century, a Marxist two prong fork of communists and fascists, newly replicated from its original twentieth century version, with additional names, has achieved final victory over liberal democracy and the capitalist system, and pushed them into the dustbin of history. Look at the West today and see freedom under attack by Marxist redshirts, brownshirts, and their friends, allies and comrades in arms. Communists. Look at communists defend their regimes in the name of Medicaid. In the name of social insurance. In the name of supporting hospitals in rural areas. In the name of providing health care for working poor people. In the name of supporting the low income strata of society. In the name of fundamental morality. In the name of social justice and social responsibility. In the name of meeting political needs and requirements. In the name of populism, the common people, and the honest toilers of the cities and farms: "Senator Josh Hawley (R-Mo.) is staking out his spot as a populist defender of Medicaid in opposition to the steep cuts contained in the House-passed megabill to fund President Trump's domestic agenda. The senior senator from Missouri—who as the state's attorney general once signed on to a lawsuit seeking to overturn the Affordable Care Act—has made his position clear: He will not support a bill that cuts Medicaid benefits. Hawley has long warned his party against Medicaid cuts; the $800 billion question is whether other senators will join him. He joined with Senator Ron Wyden (D-Ore.) during a marathon series of votes on the budget resolution in April to introduce an amendment that would have stripped the House's directive to find $880 billion in savings. The amendment was not adopted, but Senators Susan Collins (R-Maine) and Lisa Murkowski (R-Alaska) also voted for it. Earlier this month, Hawley wrote in a New York Times op-ed that slashing health care for the working poor 'is both morally wrong and politically suicidal.' 'Republicans need to open their eyes: Our voters support social insurance programs,' Hawley wrote. 'More than that, our voters depend on those programs.' 'We ought to just do what the president says,' Hawley said late last week, after the House passed its version of the bill. He cited concerns about the impact the House bill's Medicaid provisions —most notably a freeze on provider taxes—would have on rural hospitals. Missouri health experts said about 10 rural hospitals closed in the years leading up to the expansion vote. Ever since, there haven't been any closures. Hawley also said he spoke with Trump, who reiterated his desire for Congress not to cut Medicaid benefits. 'His exact words were, Don't touch it, Josh. I said hey, we're on the same page,' Hawley told reporters. In a CNN interview earlier this month, Hawley called a provision requiring increased beneficiary co-pays 'basically a hidden tax on working poor people who are trying to get health care.' Outside observers said his Medicaid position reflects the changing politics of the low income health care program. Lower income, working class people on Medicaid are now a major part of the GOP base, which has become more populist since the emergence of Trump." (Hawley Stakes Ground As Chief GOP Defender Of Medicaid by Nathaniel Weixel). Fascists. Look at fascists and their friends and allies, Islamists and black supremacists, defend their regimes in the name of Black Lives Matter. In the name of Ramadan, Shahada, Muhammad and Allah. In the name of Allahu Akbar! In the name of one billion Muslims praying on the planet. In the name of solidarity with Gaza, Hamas and Palestinian families. In the name of Muslim brothers and sisters the world over. In the name of mosques, madrasas and creeds of violence. In the name of fighting white supremacy. In the name of far left activism colored black and Muslim. In the name of black lands and black Egypt. In the name of black schools and black religions. In the name of fighting white, Christian, capitalist oppression of the black Marxist and black Muslim lords of the earth: "Left wing activist and former Black Lives Matter lobbyist Shaun King chose the first night of Ramadan to publicly reveal his embrace of Islam, with supporters exclaiming Allahu Akbar at the news. On his Telegram account, King shared a video of himself and his wife reciting the Shahada, the Islamic creed that 'there is only God and that Muhammad is his final messenger.' The caption on the video contained a message that he will be fasting in solidarity with 'my dearest friends in Gaza': 'Good evening everyone in America and good morning to the rest of the world. My wife and I just got home from evening prayers at our home mosque in Dallas, Texas. Together, we took Shahada and converted to Islam to start off Ramadan. It was a beautiful, powerful, meaningful day for us that we will never forget. I will be praying for you and I ask that you please continue praying for us. We will begin fasting in the morning with over 1 billion Muslims around the world. My heart is with my dearest friends in Gaza and I'm proud that we were able to provide meals tonight to thousands and thousands of families from the North to the South in Gaza and will do so every day of Ramadan. I will be sharing much more with you tomorrow. Love you all, Shaun.' The founder and director of the Legacy Institute Hasib Noor posted on X/Twitter: 'One of the best news I've heard for Ramadan is BROTHER accepted Islam. What an amazing man. WELCOME

TO THE FAMILY Allahu Akbar!' In 2020 he sparked controversy when he declared all statues of Jesus that portray him as a 'white European' should be torn down because they are 'a form of white supremacy,' as Breitbart News reported. 'Yes, I think the statues of the white European they claim is Jesus should also come down,' wrote King, a then self described black man whose family says he is white. 'They are a form of white supremacy. Always have been. In the Bible, when the family of Jesus wanted to hide, and blend in, guess where they went? EGYPT! Not Denmark. Tear them down.' Since 2015, King has claimed the Christian celebrations of Christmas and Easter are 'tools of white supremacy.' He was ejected from the Black Lives Matter movement by its leaders in December 2015 over questions about the integrity of activist fundraising. King later received a scholarship from Oprah Winfrey to attend Morehouse College, a historically black school, and then denied lying about his race when he applied for the grant." (Far Left Activist Shaun King Converts To Islam As Ramadan Starts: 'My Heart Is With My Dearest Friends In Gaza' by Simon Kent). Look at fascists defend their regimes in the name of nationalist and racist movements. In the name of antiglobalist forces. In the name of populism. In the name of traditional Europe, traditional America and conservative political action: "It's been a big week in Europe for CPAC, the US Conservative Political Action Conference, with large gatherings in Poland and Hungary. In Poland on Tuesday, and then in Budapest too, speakers laid out the case for what one of them called 'an international nationalist movement, a global platform for antiglobalist forces.' 'Unlike CPAC in the US, CPAC Hungary seems to have more intellectual substance. And it also serves as an opportunity--rare in Europe--for nationalist and populist politicians and activists to get together and network,' Rod Dreher, a Budapest based editor of the American Conservative told the BBC." (Europe's US Backed Conservatives Hope This Is Their Moment To Go Mainstream by Nick Thorpe). Many on the right have long viewed American college campuses as hotbeds of liberal [Marxist] indoctrination, whether it has taken the form of leftwing antiwar radicalism in the 1960s, political correctness of the 1990s, Occupy Wall Street anticapitalism of the 2000s or the Black Lives Matter movement and antiIsrael demonstrations in recent years. (The Fallout From Trump's War On Harvard Will Long Outlast His Presidency by Anthony Zurcher). The enemies of freedom crowd the stage of the twenty first century and have captured the audience. They play to the galleries, throw raw meat to the mobs, and foul the Western grounds on which they stand. Their names are as multifarious as the moral disease which controls them is simple. Their moral disease is the rejection of reason and the embrace of religion. They reject freedom in the name of managed competition, antitrust laws, antidiscrimination laws, social regulations on business, welfare state entitlements, cradle to grave social security, social democracy, public-private partnerships, racist and sexist diversity, inclusion and affirmative action policies, peace activism, antiwar demonstrations, political correctness, Occupy Wall Street, Black Lives Matter, white Aryan nations, Islamic revolution, and the destruction of Israel and Jews. In the twenty first century, the walls of civilization have been breached for all time by the enemies in control within.

GERMANY'S NEW COMMUNIST GESTAPO

It was located in the heart of Berlin at 8 Prinz Albrecht Street. Established on April 26, 1933, its 30000 employees struck terror in the hearts of the people. Pedestrians passing by its busy street in the city's downtown district beheld the face of a monster. Its abbreviation was the Gestapo, short for the Geheime Staatspolizei, and it was the official secret police force of national socialist Germany and German occupied Europe. A byword for persecution, it sought to eliminate the enemies of the regime and operated without law, right, justice or judicial process. During World War II, it played an important role in organizing and carrying out the Holocaust, and on May 8, 1945, the day of the surrender of Germany, this criminal organization was dissolved. Eighty years after its dissolution, something hitherto unthinkable and unimaginable has happened. Eighty years after a totalitarian nightmare gripping Germany for twelve years was hurled into the dustbin of history, the regime's Gestapo has returned to life. It has returned by majority vote to standing ovations of the mob, and in the twenty first century has rendered the postwar Federal Republic of Germany unrecognizable. Eighty years after Hitler's Germany went down to defeat, his police apparatus of fear and control has been reassembled and reconstituted, and has transformed the new postwar Germany into a travesty. In the twenty first century, the old Germany is back in business with only the names, colors and flags changed, and continues its work of consolidating the power of an oppressive regime. In the twenty first century, the new Gestapo is called the Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution, and its relation to the opposition represents a reversal of the situation under the Third Reich. While the first Gestapo served a fascist regime and targeted the communist opposition, the second, twenty first century Gestapo serves a communist regime and targets the fascist opposition. This reversal reflects the postwar popularity of communism among the German masses and the communization of the German establishment, and reflects the twenty first century procummunist trend of the West. In Germany in the twenty first century, and throughout the West, two Marxist gutter religions vie for power, one marching under the communist banners of class power and the other marching under the fascist banners of race power, and the communists in control of governments have weaponized their law enforcement and intelligence agencies to hound the fascist parties seeking to replace them. In Germany in the twenty first century, and throughout the West, the liberal center championing Enlightenment values has melted away under the blazing heat of Marxist ideologies, and degenerate, Roman style mass politics, championing tribalism and statism in one form or another, has assumed control. The official mandate of the Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution, set forth seventy years ago when the agency was founded, is as follows: "The German domestic intelligence services, the Bundesamt für Verfassungsschutz (BfV) at federal level and the services of the 16 German states, ensure the protection of the free democratic basic order." (verfassungsschutz.de). In the twenty first century, the official mandate has been rendered null and void by the reality of a communist establishment weaponizng the organs of state security. Listen to the new agency's mandate and hear a manifesto of Marxist political control. It proclaims a progressive intelligence service is a politicized intelligence service. A progressive intelligence service is an office for the protection of communism. A progressive intelligence service promotes communist extremism and targets fascist extremism. A progressive intelligence service is an ideologically driven intelligence service. A progressive intelligence service surveils fascist political parties and never communist political parties. A progressive intelligence service seeks to suppress fascist movements while turning a blind eye to communist movements. A progressive intelligence service is an instrument of leftwing parties and interests. A progressive intelligence service protects the communist government against its fascist competitors. A progressive intelligence service monitors fascist activists and never communist activists. A progressive intelligence service protects the communist establishment in the name of democracy. A progressive intelligence service engages in ideological blood feuds and conducts political vendettas against the fascist opposition. A progressive intelligence service seeks to preserve, protect and defend the current communist order. A progressive intelligence service is an instrument of communist cultural, academic and media circles. A progressive intelligence service is a communist intelligence service which subjects the fascist opposition to a campaign of espionage, sabotage, infiltration and terror. A progressive intelligence service is controlled by communist courts, interior ministries and political interests. A progressive intelligence service is governed by the communist principle of unequal treatment and singles out fascist parties for surveillance, and suppresses the right of free speech in the name of fighting fascist, right wing extremism. A progressive intelligence service seeks to create a political landscape in which freedom is outlawed and anticommunists are excluded for all time and expelled from the ranks of society: "Hans-Georg Maaßen is a German lawyer and former senior civil servant who served as President of the Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution (BfV), Germany's domestic intelligence agency, from 2012 to 2018. He is known for his critical stance on government immigration policy and for publicly opposing the political instrumentalization of intelligence services. Since leaving office, Maaßen has become an outspoken political commentator and a prominent voice within Germany's conservative circles. In early May, Germany's domestic intelligence agency, the Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution (BfV), classified the Alternative für Deutschland (AfD) as an extremist party. It later emerged that the justification relied largely on public statements and AfD official documents. Do you believe this decision was politically motivated? I believe that then Interior Minister Nancy Faeser either directly instructed the BfV to act or that the agency's president, Thomas Haldenwang, took this step on his own initiative out of political motivation. Either way, it was supposed to lead to the surveillance of the AfD. Back in 2013, when I was head of the BfV, I publicly stated that we would no longer monitor political parties. I was—and still am—convinced that this is not the role of an intelligence service in a democracy. Political parties should hold each other accountable, alongside the media and civil society—not secret services. In no other Western democracy are political parties monitored by intelligence agencies, because these agencies are part of the executive branch and therefore answer to the government. That creates an obvious conflict of interest. Minister Faeser chose a different path, and in my view, it was purely political. One of the key aims of her tenure was to combat the Right. For her, the AfD was a political enemy. This is a clear case of using domestic intelligence services to suppress opposition. Have you observed a broader trend in which the BfV is used to suppress inconvenient organizations or political movements—while turning a blind eye to others? What are the implications for democracy? Absolutely. When I led the BfV, I was constantly under pressure from left wing parties and the media to place the AfD under surveillance. In 2016, I made it clear: I am not a tool of the governing parties, nor is it the BfV's job to undermine their political competitors. The agency's mandate is to protect the constitutional order—not to carry out political vendettas. Many readers outside Germany might not be familiar with how your intelligence system is structured. Could you explain what the BfV actually does—and what its role should be in a democracy? Germany has two main intelligence agencies: the BND (foreign intelligence) and the BfV (domestic intelligence). The foreign service collects intelligence abroad to inform government policy and military strategy. The BfV, on the other hand, is tasked with counterespionage, preventing sabotage, identifying infiltration by hostile states or extremists, and protecting against terrorism. In addition to these security tasks, the BfV also has a mandate to monitor extremism—this is where problems begin. Today, the interpretation of extremism has been stretched to the point where normal political parties and associations can be labeled as threats to the constitutional order. But who defines what counts as a threat to the constitutional order? Ultimately, it's the Interior Ministry—or the courts, if they're even consulted. And the Interior Minister is always a politician with political interests. In Bavaria, for example, the state level intelligence service consistently targeted right wing parties that were competitors to the ruling Christian Social Union (CSU). It's no secret that the CSU doesn't want competition to its right—just as left wing parties dislike right wing rivals. That's the political landscape. But this dynamic clearly violates the constitutional principle of equal treatment for all parties." ("The Intelligence Agency Has Been Weaponized To Attack Political Rivals"—Former German Spy Chief Hans-Georg Maaßen by Artur Ciechanowicz). On November 7, 1950 at 100 Merian Street in Cologne, Germany, the Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution opened its doors. Given a mission to protect the new freedom in Germany through domestic intelligence gathering directed against subversive organizations, the agency banished the nightmare of the Gestapo. It gained a reputation for unfailing probity and commitment to its mission. In the twenty first century, this well respected office closed up shop and vacated its premises, thrown out by the mob. The mob wanted a new domestic intelligence gathering agency serving the cause of communism and weaponized to fight a burgeoning fascist movement. The mob wanted another Gestapo with the original characters reversed. In the twenty first century, Germany's Bundesamt für Verfassungsschutz exists in name only and has been compromised and disgraced for all time to come.

SUBVERSION IN SEATTLE

A gutter is a depression running parallel to a street whose purposes are to collect rainwater and sewage. Gutters have to be sufficiently deep to carry away water and filth, and be made of material able to contain poison. Without gutters, streets and sidewalks would be hindered by the build up of water from the sky and bacteria from human settlements, and towns would be impassable and inhabitable. In the twenty first century, the most populous city in the American state of Washington and in the Pacific Northwest Region of North America, situated on an isthmus between Puget Sound and Lake Washington, a gateway for trade with the East with the fourth largest port in North America, has been transformed into a gutter overflowing with dirty water rushing out from civilizational collapse. In the twenty first century, the city of Seattle, population 800,000, located 160 kilometers from the Canadian border, has become the nation's center of Marxist insurrection, in a dramatic illustration of just how sick the civilization has become and how far the cancer of far left ideas has advanced into every sector of society and every town and nation in the West. In the twenty first century, the City of Flowers and the City of Goodwill has descended into a maelstrom of crime and disorder fueled by the enemies of freedom, and the flowers and the goodwill have been kicked into the flowing waste matter of Marxist world revolution. Swirling in a gutter religion of gender, race and class politics and its gutter city, streets, squares, homes and people is a manifesto of Marxist counterEnlightenment which is Seattle's anthem in the twenty first century. Listen to it and hear the death knell toll for freedom in the West. It has been tolling for the past one hundred years but in the twenty first century, it has reached ear splitting decibels. Listen to the twenty first century death knell in Seattle. It proclaims that a progressive society is patrolled by black clad hoodlums spreading violence in the streets. A progressive society is a church of Marxism whose pastors tear down fences, stages, platforms and people in the enforcement of political correctness. A progressive society outlaws free speech and enforces Marxist ideological lockstep in the name of combating fascism. A progressive society is an organized movement of suppression of antiMarxist dissent. A progressive society promotes communism spelled Antifa. A progressive society is an aggressive Marxist society without police or law enforcement. A progressive society is a Marxist mob censoring the voices of liberal Enlightenment. A progressive society sacrifices constitutional rights upon the altar of the Marxist party line. A progressive society enforces the religion of transgenderism, which proclaims that the human sex chromosomes discovered by science do not exist, that human gender can be changed at will, and that transgender males are real males and transgender females are real females. A progressive society is a partisan society which assaults and intimidates those who challenge the tenets of black Marxism, feminist Marxism, gay Marxism, lesbian Marxism, transgender Marxism and Muslim Marxism. A progressive society rejects the constitutional right of peaceful assembly if the peaceful assembly challenges Marxism. A progressive society defines civic obligation as the obligation to expand and consolidate the influence of Marxism. A progressive society is a congregation for the doctrine of the faith preaching Marxist crime, conspiracy, control and counterEnlightenment. A progressive society punishes police officers who protect antiMarxist speakers from mob violence, forcing them to complete after action reports before they resign. A progressive society has established a Marxist Park Department to ensure that every square meter of land is off limits to antiMarxists. A progressive society condemns those who defend liberal, antitribalist, anticollectivist values as far right extremists and orders their arrest, prosecution and imprisonment. A progressive society is a theological society run by priests wearing the collars of communist revolution. A progressive society is a Marxist jungle without public safety or public order. A progressive society is a Marxist megaphone shouting down the defenders of liberal constitutional principles. A progressive society issues protest permits to Marxists and to nobody else. A progressive society outlaws disagreement with Marxism as criminal provocation. A progressive society withdraws police protection from politically disfavored groups such as antiMarxists. A progressive society is run by Marxist bureacrats and their masked henchmen. A progressive society zones out antiMarxist protests and proclaims that every place in the world is the wrong place to protest against Marxism. A progressive society is run by Marxist mayors and councils enforcing ideological preferences and outlawing the opposition. A progressive society is a lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender Pride rally. A progressive society is a Marxist university holding lectures, debates and discussions for the faithful. A progressive society is a Marxist transgender drag performance. A progressive society is a leftwing activist society rejecting liberal tolerance. A progressive society sacrifices truth and knowledge on the altar of Marxist absolutism. A progressive society rejects the liberal principle of free speech and romanticizes the Marxist use of brute force. A progressive society runs antiMarxist speakers off the streets, off the squares and out of the universe. A progressive society protects the rights and privileges of Marxists and the rights and privileges of nobody else. A progressive society is a radical group, a radical commune, a radical nation and an insurrection against liberal Western civilization: "In Seattle last weekend, violence broke out—not from the pulpit, but from the pavement. Pastors and churchgoers, gathered for a permitted worship event in a city park, found themselves besieged by a black clad mob who attempted to tear down fencing, rush the stage, and shout them down. The attackers were not counterprotesters in any constitutional sense of the word. They were masked militants whose tactics have become a hallmark of Antifa: organized, aggressive, and aimed not at persuasion but suppression. To their credit, the Seattle police intervened. Arrests were made. Barricades held. For a moment, law reasserted itself in a city too long governed by hesitation. Then came the mayor. Bruce Harrell, elected to lead but seemingly content to triangulate, did not respond with praise for law enforcement or a reaffirmation of Seattle's civic obligations to neutrality and free expression. Instead, he questioned the Christian group's presence—why they had been issued a permit and why their event had not been relocated to a 'less provocative' area. Translated: The fault lies not with the mob—heaven forbid—but those who dared to speak within earshot of it. This goes beyond appeasement or failed civic leadership. The mayor effectively signaled that the rule of law in Seattle is conditional—and that those who assault Christians may expect indulgence, while those who dare to preach in public may expect scrutiny. Rather than commend his officers or affirm the constitutional right of peaceful assembly, Harrell issued a statement directing the Parks Department to reexamine the permitting process and urging the police to produce an after action report focused on crowd management tactics and the arrests themselves. The subtext was unmistakable: those arrested may soon be recast as misunderstood protesters, and the officers who protected the event could find themselves under internal review. In Seattle, even enforcing the law can become grounds for investigation—if you defend the wrong group. The mayor then implies that the real danger lies in 'far right' speech held in a historically LGBTQ+ neighborhood. In other words, the public square is now zoned for ideology. Speech rights may exist on paper but are conditional—revocable if your message strays from the orthodoxy or irritates Seattle's cringeworthy Mayor LaTrivia, always eager with bureaucratic balm for the mob's bruised feelings. When Antifa radicals descended on peaceful worshipers last weekend, the police held their ground, made the arrests, and upheld public order. The mayor's response wasn't to praise their discipline—it was to investigate why the church was allowed to be there at all. In Harrell's Seattle, the line between public safety and political scorekeeping depends on who holds the megaphone and wears the clerical collar. This is how constitutional principles are hollowed out—not all at once, but incrementally—by reclassifying disagreement as provocation and violence as justified reaction. Harrell's response should alarm even those who disagree with the Christian group's views. The mayor of a major US city has openly suggested that a government issued permit, lawfully obtained and exercised, becomes illegitimate if the content offends a politically favored group. This is a declaration of ideological preference enforced by location, bureaucratic review, and the implied threat of future denial of a permit—or withdrawal of police protection. To be clear: had masked men stormed a Pride rally, or a progressive teach in, or a drag performance, the political response would be swift and thunderous. There would be no suggestion that the event was 'in the wrong place.' There would be no call to relocate it to the margins. But for conservative Christians in Seattle, the message is clear: your rights exist only where the mob permits them." (When City Hall Chooses The Mob by Charleton Allen). In the twenty first century, the Emerald City has been smashed by sledgehammers marked cultural subversion. Enforcing the dogmas of gender, race and class politics, the Marxist ruling circles have placed the legacies of the Enlightenment behind a barbed fence. A bloodied hand reaches out, holding aloft the torch of liberty. It is mocked in Seattle.